SOUTH SEA ISLAND KING ALARMED

JAPANESE CAUSE OF HIS DISQUIETUDE

As a Safeguard, Asks That His Kingdom Be Annexed to Australia

Melbourne, Aust., Nov. 12.—Witlams, who claims to be king of the Loyalty Islands in the Pacific Ocean, is urging the federal government to secure a transfer of the islands from the French, so that his kingdom may come under the control of the Australian government. He dreads Japanese invasion, and believes that his islands are overrun with Japanese spies, who will make use of the Loyalty group in their certain invasion of the commonwealth.

Witlams is now in Melbourne, and has created a sensation, reviving the old Japanese invasion scare. The king is emphatic in his declaration that Japanese soldiers are migrating to the islands, and he urges upon the government the fact that the Loyalty group is in danger of being taken over by a nation at enmity with the commonwealth. The government has promised to consider his request.

POWDER MILL EXPLOSION. Searching for Bodies of Supposed Victims.

Hammond, Ind., Nov. 12.—A terrific explosion took place at the Aetna Powder Mills, twenty miles east of here, this morning. Information is meagre, except the drying plant was blown up and that a number of persons were killed or badly injured. The entire population of the town is searching the debris for bodies and a census of the place may have to be taken in order to find out who were killed.

Six killed. Gary, Ind., Nov. 12.—Six men were killed by an explosion of 2,000 pounds of dynamite in one of the packing houses at the plant of the Aetna Powder Company, near Gary, to-day. A number of workmen were reported injured, but officials of the powder company say this was incorrect. The men who lost their lives were repairing a packing machine when the explosion occurred. The dynamite was loose in 100-pound lots on the packing trays, and but for this the accident would have been much more severe.

DIVORCE COMMITTEE SUBMITS ITS REPORT

Majority Favors Sexes Being Placed on Equality Before the Law

London, Nov. 12.—The committee on divorce which has been investigating this subject for several years, has made public the result of its inquiry. The majority report recommends that the two sexes be placed on an equality before the law with regard to grounds for divorce, which shall be adultery, desertion for three years, incurable insanity after five years' confinement, and habitual drunkenness found to be incurable after three years.

From the issuance of the first separation order it recommends that all divorce cases shall be heard by a judge alone, who is empowered to close the court during the hearings, and prohibit the publication of the details. The majority report also recommends that no report on matrimonial cases shall be allowed until they are furnished, and that the publication of the portraits of the parties thereto shall be prohibited.

The report states that the evidence taken during the investigations showed that the proposed extension of the grounds for divorce, far from tending to lower the standard of morality, had a contrary effect, and that the present stringent restrictions and costliness of divorces are productive of immorality and illicit relations, particularly among the poorer classes.

This report is signed by nine commissioners. The minority report, which is signed by the Archbishop of York and two other commissioners, opposes the extension of the causes for divorce on the ground that this is destructive to the sanctity of marriage ties and family life, and contrary to the principles of Christian faith in its relations to marriage.

VANCOUVER MAYORALTY.

Candidates Who Are Likely to Be in the Field.

Vancouver, Nov. 12.—It is the general belief in civic circles that the mayoralty field this year will be left to Alderman Ramsey and Alderman Baxter. Jonathan Rogers has been mentioned as a possible candidate, but when spoken to said that he had never authorized anyone to state definitely that he would be in the field. This did not mean, however, he said, that he would not run. He had been asked by a number of his friends to announce himself, but as yet had not made up his mind. There is still another possibility, L. D. Taylor. While Mr. Taylor has not declared explicitly he will run, it is the current opinion that he will be in the field.

It is generally believed, however, that the contest will be confined to Ald. Ramsey and Ald. Baxter.

SPANISH PREMIER ASSASSINATED

SHOT BEHIND EAR,
DIED AS HE FELL

Murderer, an Anarchist, Reported to Have Committed Suicide

Madrid, Nov. 12.—The Spanish premier, Joseph Canalejas, was assassinated here to-day.

The assassin was captured by the police. He gave the name of Manuel Pardiñas Zerrato Martin, and said he was a native of El Grado, in the province of Huesca.

Martin fired four shots at Premier Canalejas as he was entering the ministry of the interior to attend a cabinet meeting. Two of the shots struck the statesman behind the right ear and he fell dead on the spot.

The assassin is 25 years old and is believed to be an anarchist.

London, Nov. 12.—A news agency dispatch from Madrid says the assassin of Premier Canalejas committed suicide.

Jose Canalejas Mondes, premier of Spain, who was assassinated to-day, was selected to form the Spanish cabinet in February, 1910. He was leader of the Monarchical Democratic party, which came into power on the resignation of the Liberals, headed by Senor Moret Prendergast.

Senor Canalejas, who belonged to a wealthy and prominent family, came to the front in political life only in 1909, when he took a leading part in the combination against clericalism. He had, however, taken great interest in politics as a student and public speaker for many years before that.

At the age of 25 he became a member of the Spanish parliament, attaching himself to the Liberal section.

He became a member of Premier St. Gaudet's cabinet in 1902 as minister of agriculture. He introduced many reforms, especially in regard to the working classes and eventually created a department of labor.

When he was asked in February, 1910, by King Alfonso to form a ministry, the request caused a great sensation, as it was the first time in the history of Spain that an advanced Radical had been placed at the head of the ministry. The cabinet has since undergone many changes, but he has always retained the leading place.

SMALLPOX IN QUEBEC PROVINCE

NEARING DIMENSIONS OF AN EPIDEMIC

Health Regulations Disregarded, Says Inspector of the Board of Health

Montreal, Nov. 12.—With several new cases of smallpox in Montreal within the past 48 hours, 65 known cases in Beauharnois and 25 known cases in St. Laurent, upwards of 21 municipalities in the province are affected by the malady. This is stated by Dr. J. A. Beaudry, chief inspector of the provincial board of health, who says it is the net result of ignorance and negligence on the part of the members of the medical profession in and about Montreal and Quebec.

Dr. Beaudry, speaking of the conditions prevailing throughout the province, declared that the known cases were but an indication of the conditions as they really exist. He added that it would take an army of inspectors to supervise the carrying out of health regulations as regards smallpox.

The provincial authorities in the campaign had to meet with the prejudice of the people on the one hand and the ignorance of the medical profession on the other. This latter, declared Dr. Beaudry, was appalling and constituted by far the greatest obstacle in the way of the public health authorities.

BIG GAME HUNTER FROZEN IN. Germag Baron May Have to Spend Winter in North.

Dawson, Y. T., Nov. 12.—Baron Hans van Bergen, the noted German hunter of big game, who was one of the party leaving on the last boat out, will probably have to spend the winter here, as the Vidette was caught in the ice and the passengers forced to mush overland back to Dawson.

The Baron went into the country at the head of the White, fully prepared to stay all winter, but changed his mind the last thing and distributed his large outfit among the men here. He had seventeen horses carrying the outfit from McCarthy, the last station on the Copper River and Northwestern Railway. It required six days from the road to the head of the White via Sculp Pass.

The Baron killed two fine sheep at the head of the White. He saved the skins, bones and heads for the Berlin museum. He secured specimens of the barren land caribou, such as migrate through this region, but was unable to get any wood caribou. This will probably be the last trip for him to the Yukon, he says, if he ever gets outside. Next year he will return to Canada, going to the barren lands north of Edmonton and the Great Slave lake, with hopes of getting a permit to kill buffalo and musk ox.

OFF TO THE WAR. Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 12.—The armored cruisers Tennessee and Montana sailed to-day for Constantinople to safeguard American interests in war-stricken Turkey.

TURKEY ASKS POWERS TO ARRANGE ARMISTICE

Bulgaria Not Likely to Listen Until Decisive Battle Has Been Fought

London, Nov. 12.—It is said the European powers, at the request of Turkey, are about to sound the Balkan allies with the object of arranging an armistice.

Bulgaria is not likely to accede to an armistice until the conclusion of the battle along the lines of Tchatalja, in front of Constantinople, which is being fought, the principal move in which only awaits the arrival of more heavy siege artillery for the Bulgarian army.

GUARDING AGAINST MENINGITIS.

Denver, Col., Nov. 12.—The noses and throats of 600 United States army recruits and officers stationed at Fort Logan will be thoroughly swabbed and sprayed to-day and for several succeeding days as one of the precautionary measures against the spread of spinal meningitis, which caused the death of one soldier on Saturday. Quarantine is rigidly enforced by the army surgeons, who believe the disease will not appear in epidemic form. Thus far only one case has developed.

STRIKE RIOTING.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 12.—Rioting, in which several shots were fired and which the police were called on to quell, broke out early to-day in the teamsters' strike, which has been dormant for several weeks.

STEEL INTERESTS ARE BECOMING IMPORTANT

Demand a Special Commission to Consider Demand for Higher Protection

Ottawa, Nov. 11.—The steel interests, which recently renewed their demand for an increase in the tariff, have asked the government to name a special commission to deal particularly with their request. They have decided on this course because of the delay due to the failure of parliament to pass a bill last session to create a permanent tariff commission. They do not want to wait until a new bill is passed providing for the appointment of a permanent commission and claim that this matter of steel duties is one which should be dealt with by a commission of experts. The request is under consideration by the government.

TURKISH FORTS MAY HAVE FALLEN

BULGARIANS REPORTED
AT SEA OF MARMORA

But Suffered Severe Losses in Capturing Two Strong Turkish Forts

London, Nov. 12.—Rumors are current to-day in Sofia that the Bulgarian army has captured the line of forts at Tchatalja in front of Constantinople, according to a news agency dispatch. A Bulgarian column is said to have reached Biyuk Chekmekdye, on the Sea of Marmora, to the south of Tchatalja. Around Adrianople the Bulgarians are going through some of the hardest fighting of the campaign. Dispatches from their side to-day stated that the Bulgarian troops suffered heavy losses in the taking of the two Turkish forts of Kartaltepe and Papaztepe, outside of the fortress of Adrianople. Whenever they wavered their officers and priests exhorted them to go forward at any cost. The fort of Papaztepe was taken only after heavy reserves had been brought up, so stubborn was the Turkish resistance.

It is explained by military experts that these two positions do not form part of the fortifications of the city of Adrianople, but are situated on hills some seven miles outside of the advanced fort of Karagach. This latter fort was reported to have been taken by the Bulgarians some days ago, but since then the Turks have claimed a repulse of the Bulgarians. The two hills of Kartaltepe and Papaztepe, however, afford good starting points for an advance toward the line of fortifications.

Bombardment of Tarakosch. Rieka, Montenegro, Nov. 12.—The bombardment of the Turkish city of Tarakosch, on Lake Scutari, continued throughout Sunday. Toward evening the Turkish garrison withdrew to the highest points of the works which are on the sides of the mountains. Their position was rendered so desperate by exposure to the snow and by lack of provisions that they attempted later to abandon all positions and escape into the city of Scutari. They were, however, driven back into Tarakosch by the Montenegrin troops.

British Protect Americans. The British foreign office has informed the United States embassy here that very few American citizens remained in the interior of Asia Minor. Even before the request was received from Washington steps had been taken by British officials and warships to protect American citizens requiring assistance, and those wishing it had been received on board British warships. The United States embassy here formally expressed its thanks to the British authorities.

Cholera in Constantinople. A dispatch from Constantinople received by the foreign office says that bills of health of all vessels leaving the Turkish capital are marked "Cholera prevails in Constantinople."

BOY'S STORY DOUBTED.

Sacramento, Cal., Nov. 12.—George Maine, a youth, surrendered to the police here to-day, declaring that he was one of the bandits who held up the Northbound Shasta Limited train at Delta last Friday night. He said there were three men in the robbery, Harry Davis, Jim Gallagher and himself. He said that Gallagher was the man who was shot and killed by Brakeman Yeakum. The police doubt the truth of Maine's story.

JUST FOR PRACTICE.

Aldershot, Eng., Nov. 12.—A practice mobilization of the whole of the troops stationed at the military camp here has been ordered by the war office. The troops compose an entire army corps, with infantry, cavalry, artillery and the auxiliary services complete.

NATIONALISTS IN THE CABINET

ARMAND LAVERGNE'S
LATEST EXPLANATION

Conditions Imposed Upon Premier Borden by French-
Canadian Contingent

Quebec, Nov. 11.—Armand Lavergne, in his address to 1,500 persons at Lorette, recounted a new version of how the French-Canadian members of the cabinet had been selected by the new premier after his victory of last fall.

"The first names proposed," Mr. Lavergne said, "were those of Messrs. Monk, Teller and myself. I declined this offer of a portfolio in the cabinet, and at Mr. Pelletier's request I did my best to make Mr. Monk accept him in my place. He objected at first. Mr. Forget at the same time was working in favor of Mr. T. Chase Casgrain, but for my part I could not accept any man who participated in the Riel case."

"It seemed understood then with the premier and Mr. Monk that Mr. Pelletier would be the Quebec representative in the cabinet. Later I learned that Mr. Borden's intentions were to have only two French-Canadian ministers in his government, and it was at this juncture that I went to Montreal on a special train, paid for by Mr. Cahan, to impress Mr. Borden with the necessity of following the tradition of giving three French-Canadian representatives in the Federal cabinet, which point we finally gained."

"I told Premier Borden that I declined the offer that he made me, and asked to have Mr. Pelletier chosen, and the next day the cabinet was formed with Mr. Monk as Minister of Public Works; Mr. Nantel, Minister of Interior, and Mr. Pelletier, Secretary of State.

"Mr. Pelletier, who was not informed that he had been appointed one of the ministers, went to Montreal with a delegation to protest against my entering the cabinet, claiming that it was a humiliation for him, to whom the position was due. It was I who told him that he had been named minister. Later we went to Ottawa, where Mr. Pelletier met Mr. Monk and asked the latter if he had any guarantee for the minority of the west and the plebeians on the navy question. When we returned to Montreal there was a meeting at the Place Viger Station. Sir Rodolphe Forget then asked that Mr. Pelletier be appointed Postmaster-General. The change made no difference, as we did not lose our three representatives."

CANADIAN NORTHERN AFTER EASTERN OUTLET

Will Make Application to Parliament During Coming Session

Montreal, Nov. 12.—The Canadian Northern Railway, is understood, will seek legislation this session providing for its maritime outlet for through traffic from the west. The company has two outlets in view. One is by securing running rights over the Intercolonial from Montreal or Quebec to St. John and Halifax, while the other is to make connections with the Boston & Maine line at Sherbrooke. The company is applying for legislation this session authorizing the construction of a line from Montreal to Lewis, with a branch running down from St. Hyacinthe and Sherbrooke.

MISSIONARIES SAFE.

New York, Nov. 12.—Cleveland H. Dodge of this city to-day received the following cablegram from Dr. Gates, president of the Robert College at Constantinople:

"Constantinople, Nov. 11.—The missionaries and colleges of Constantinople are all right. The city is tranquil. Our college is in session as usual."

IMMIGRANTS ON WAY HERE.

STRIKE ON C. P. R. Employees at North Bay Ask to Be Taken Back.

North Bay, Nov. 12.—The striking freight handlers, clerks, etc., asked the C. P. R. superintendent here yesterday for reinstatement, and some of them were allowed to return to work. It is generally believed that the strike is over.

LABOR CONVENTION.

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 12.—With the reports out of the way the delegates to the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor to-day settled down to discussions and business that may make this convention a memorable one. The situation in the metal trades on the Pacific coast is certain to attract attention.

EUROPEAN WAR IS UNTHINKABLE

ARGUES A PROMINENT PARISIAN NEWSPAPER

Distribution of Ports on Adriatic the Question Which May Cause Trouble

Paris, Nov. 12.—"For the whole of Europe to be plunged into war simply over the question of whether Servia shall have a port on the Adriatic Sea is an eventuality too monstrous to be entertained," said a leading newspaper to-day.

The suggestion by the British premier, Mr. Asquith, that all specific questions, such as the distribution of ports on the Adriatic Sea, should be postponed, finds great favor in France, where it is thought that if such subsidiary problems can be relegated to the future the danger of a European conflict will pass away. Advice reaching here from Belgrade confirm the report that the exposition of Austria-Hungary point of view to Premier Pachitch of Serbia by the Austrian government contained nothing of the character of an ultimatum. Premier Pachitch was to leave to-day for Uskup to confer with King Peter, and the news distinctly prevails here that Austria-Hungary and Serbia are trying earnestly to reach an agreement.

MINING IN YUKON.

Big Undertaking Being Launched By Capitalists.

Dawson, Y. T., Nov. 12.—The most systematic undertaking in the history of deep channel placer mining in the Yukon has just been started by a syndicate headed by Dr. S. A. Thurston Heydon and Robert Leitch. The combination is known as the White Lead Company, and will develop ground recently staked on the Yukon river benches and cut by Hale creek, a tributary of the Yukon on the left limit, seven miles below Dawson. Hale creek is a mile and a half long. The creek has cut through the benches, leaving an ideal proposition for tunnelling through a portion of the hill. It is said the tunnel will serve as a natural drain as well as an opening to the gold. The 500-foot tunnel should be finished by about April 1. Water may be encountered requiring some time for draining, but the promoters say the delay in any event will be but temporary, and that by spring the Hale creek proposition should be demonstrated. Three tons of supplies were sent down the river in a boat while the ice was running. The tunnel will run into the Yukon benches at a point 4,000 feet back from the river, and at an altitude of 175 feet above the Yukon river. If a shaft were sunk to touch the back end of the 500-foot tunnel it would be, it is estimated, from 500 to 1,000 feet deep.

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION.

Chehalis, Wash., Nov. 12.—It has just been learned that as Rev. W. E. Simpson, pastor of the Grace Evangelical church, of Little Falls, was leaving the building Sunday night, November 2, he was attacked by an assassin, who attempted to stab him in the left breast. The Lewis county sheriff's office has kept the matter quiet until this time. A dim ray of light from the parsonage, which is but a few steps from the church, made it possible for the pastor to see the man's arm as it descended and also the knifeblade. But for this murder would have been committed. As it was, Mr. Simpson threw up his arm just in time to ward off the blow, the knife merely cutting his clothes and causing a slight scratch on his skin. Some time ago a Hindu made advances toward two small girls of Little Falls, and for this act Rev. Mr. Simpson gave him a sound thrashing. It is supposed it was he who attacked the minister out of revenge.

BANK LOOTED.

Bartlesville, Okla., Nov. 12.—Five bandits dynamited the Bank of Okla., Okla., to-day, got $2,500 and escaped. The robbers cut all the telephone and telegraph wires leading into the town before they attacked the bank.

INVESTMENT OF TURKISH CITIES

BULGARIANS ACTIVE IN THEIR OPERATIONS

Conditions in Adrianople Reported Desperate—Stronghold Cannot Long Hold Out

Sofia, Nov. 12.—The situation of the Bulgarian troops investing Adrianople and on the Tchatalja line in front of Constantinople is the subject of many rumors to-day owing to the absence of any official dispatches from the front. It is known that the Bulgarian troops have opened their attack on the Tchatalja forts, but no details of the fighting have been received. The Bulgarian troops engaged in the siege of Adrianople are working in heavy operation. Clashes with the Turkish garrison of that stronghold occur daily.

Some of the Turkish troops taken prisoners during earlier declare that conditions in the city are desperate. The population, they say, is on the verge of starvation and it is thought the garrison will be starved out in ten days. Bread, meat and sugar have been selling at exorbitant prices and the supplies are now exhausted.

Large numbers of the Turkish irregulars have been pillaging the villages around Adrianople. It is said the Bulgarians have succeeded in suppressing the looters and establishing proper administration.

A column of 700 Turkish prisoners with six officers arrived in Sofia to-day.

ASPHYXIATED BY GAS.

Boy Dead; Mother Has Narrow Escape.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 12.—Tracery Davis, 12 years old, was asphyxiated by escaping gas to-day in his home, and his mother, Mrs. Dora A. Davis, is in a critical condition from the same cause. Oxygen treatment has probably saved her life. At 4:30 o'clock this morning Mrs. Davis lighted a gas plate in the kitchen and one in the bathroom, then returned to bed for about fifteen minutes. She repaired to the kitchen and sat down to wait for the water to get warm, and it is presumed the gas escaped from both the kitchen and bathroom cocks and completely filled the house. When Arthur Wilson, a delivery man, knocked on the door and received no response, he glanced through the window. Growing alarmed, he broke open the door, and the smell of gas nearly overcame him. He rescued the woman, but the boy was dead.

CANADIANS BUYING PUGET SOUND TIMBER

Reported to Have Contracted for Delivery of One Hundred Million Feet

Seattle, Nov. 12.—The Canadian Car & Foundry Company of Toronto, together with several car foundries, have purchased approximately 100,000,000 feet of Washington and Oregon lumber within the last ten days to be delivered in large lots throughout the winter.

The news of this buying, which is among the heaviest in the history of Washington lumbering interests, came through several of the largest dealers in this city yesterday. Lumbermen in the Gray's Harbor district, it is stated, captured the largest slice of the contract.

Sufficient cars could not now be built to be of service in handling this year's crop, but the big orders were taken yesterday by leading lumbermen as a significant indication of the preparation by the large transportation lines for the sustained and increasing commercial revival now upon the country. Orders for steel cars were refused by American car-building companies from the Canadian Pacific as recently as September. It was announced that the unfilled tonnage would prevent the car builders from taking on any more of a load.

The shrewdness of the car builders in making heavy purchases at this time was remarked yesterday by leading manufacturers. The yard line trade is quiet on account of the mid-season inactivity, and the resumption of that trade is not due until December 1. The favorable prices thus brought about, it is stated, attracted the big buyers, who enlarged their orders.

LETTER CARRIERS WANT SHORTER HOURS

DEPUTATION MEETS POSTMASTER-GENERAL

Number of Grievances Submitted, Which Are Promised Consideration

Ottawa, Nov. 12.—Hon. L. P. Pelletier, Postmaster-General, received a deputation Saturday representing the Letter Carriers' Association. A number of important resolutions asking for the betterment of conditions on behalf of letter carriers in Canada were presented to the minister. The Postmaster-General went carefully into the different matters with the deputation.

The deputation consisted of W. H. Hop, Winnipeg; A. McMurley, Toronto; and P.
Menard, Montreal.

The first resolution dealt with the establishment of an eight-hour day for the letter-carriers in Canada. The men's representatives pointed out to the Postmaster-General that at present the question of length of hours was too much in the hands of the local officials.

Mr. Pelletier was most favorable to this resolution, and said it was the carriers' own fault if they worked more than eight hours. The deputation asked that carriers who are required to work more than this period may have the postmasters behind them if they protest.

The Postmaster-General promised to consider thoroughly the resolution requiring regular pay during illness. The deputation pointed out that in Great Britain letter carriers received full pay for six months and half pay for the other six months during such loss, and suggested that as a basis for a system in Canada.

They said they were opposed to the present irregular system.

The last resolution was one requiring Saturday as a half-holiday in the months of June, July and August.

Mr. Pelletier said he did not think there would be much difficulty in regard to this,
and he promised to consider the matter.
A resolution embodying an increase in the wages was put forward by the deputation, and the Postmaster-General promised his careful consideration.

The last resolution dealt with the fixing of the reasonable limits for the load each man is expected to carry. It was pointed out that the carriers at present have to take loads of mail ranging from 90 to 150 pounds in weight.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 12.—Going

the "dynamite conspiracy" trial of wrecked bridges, viaducts and buildings he left behind in causing explosions in various cities.

"After I blew up the power house of a car shop in Mount Vernon, Ill., Herbert S. Hockin came to me at Chicago and said I had gotten the wrong job," testified McManigal.

"He said I should have blown up a railroad bridge, and the unions executive board would not allow me pay for the job."

"A few days later Hockin returned with J. B. McNamara. McNamara said he had just come from Salt Lake City, where he had blown up the new Utah hotel building on April 18. He told me J. E. Munsey, the business agent at Salt Lake City, had arranged the explosion, and Munsey also arranged to prove an alibi when the explosion came off by going to a store and talking to persons there."

"Showing me a newspaper picture of the Salt Lake City explosion, McNamara said it had been terrific, and it came near blowing a statue of Brigham Young off a pedestal."

"Hockin went to Cincinnati in June, and wired me to follow. I told him I would do one of two things—work for a living and quit dynamiting, or do nothing but dynamiting. Hockin said he had plenty for me to do. He said I was to go to Indianapolis, get twelve quarts of nitro-glycerine and blow up the Denison and Harvard viaduct in Cleveland on June 22."

"J. B. McNamara accompanied me from Cincinnati to Indianapolis. On the train I told McNamara that Hockin was to pay me $125 for each job. He was surprised, saying the executive board was allowing $200 and expenses for each job. I said Hockin was holding out on me. McNamara said the big fellow (meaning J. J. McNamara, his brother, who was treasurer of the ironworkers union) would see that I was paid in full for each job."

"At the ironworkers' headquarters in Indianapolis, J. B. and J. J. McNamara and I compared accounts and found Hockin had held out $500 on me for all the jobs I had done. J. J. said he always suspected Hockin was a double-crosser, and now he knew it."

He said he was going to tell President Frank M. Ryan about it, but I was to go right on with the jobs as planned.

"J. B. and I, with three nitro-glycerine bombs of four quarts each packed in suitcases, departed for Cleveland, reporting there June 18, 1910, four days before the explosion. Hockin appeared and said he had seen Peter J. Smith, who said everything was all right."

When we were ready to pull off the explosions we were to telephone Smith to keep under cover.

"Hockin also said they were preparing to blow up jobs at Detroit, that the carpenters' union had put up $100, and the sheet metal workers were willing to do their share. The carpenters, he said, wanted to get a manufacturing company."

"At about 9 o'clock on a rainy night
we put the bombs on the Cleveland job, and after crawling on our stomachs to elude watchmen, returned to town and took a train for Toledo.
At Toledo we read in the papers an account of the Cleveland explosion."

"Then we went to Detroit, where we met a man with a black eye. J. B. said he had $100 from the carpenters'
union to pay us for the work."

"Do you see in court now the man who had the black eye?" McManigal was asked. The witness pointed out Charles Wachmeister, former ironworkers' business agent in Detroit, who is a defendant.

"After J. B. had got from an express office a package of infernal machines that had been shipped from Indianapolis," continued McManigal, "he said there had been too much talking going on in Detroit, and we would not blow up any jobs at that time. I went out in a field and buried twelve quarts of nitro-glycerine, marking the spot by hanging a tin can on the branch of a nearby tree."

McManigal said he was informed that Wachmeister had received the $100 from Hiram Cline, organizer for the International Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, and that Robert G. M. Ross represented the sheet metal workers in connection with proposed explosions at Detroit.

The witness said he and Hockin in July went to Pittsburgh, where they looked over a job at McKees Rocks, but while there they received a telegram from J. J. McNamara at Indianapolis, saying:

"Go no further with present plans.
All bets off."

"It made Hockin think some one was on our trail, and he was greatly worried," said McManigal.

An explosion at McKees Rocks occurred two weeks later, but not in connection with this visit.

From Pittsburgh, the witness said, he and Hockin went to Rochester, Pa., where they procured out of a hiding-place in an old copper shop twelve quarts of nitro-glycerine, which they were to take to Peter J. Smith, Cleveland.

of the men. All of his loot was in silver.

DEFEAT OF BRITISH GOVERNMENT

TRAP SET BY THE OPPOSITION TACTICIAN

Division Not Expected—Government Has No Intention of Resigning

London, Nov. 11.—The British cabinet was defeated to-day by a vote of 225 against 206 on an amendment proposed by the Unionist party to a financial clause of the Home Rule bill while it was under discussion in the committee of the House of Commons. The government is now faced with three possible courses. The cabinet can resign, it can drop the Home Rule bill or it can bring forward a motion to recommit the bill and obtain the opinion of the full house on the vote which was taken to-day, after it has given due notice of its intention to do so.

A government official said to-night that the government would not resign, and the general opinion is that it will move for the reconsideration of the bill.
The division was unexpected and occurred on Monday, when many of the supporters of the government had not returned from their week-end vacations.

The division was a snap one on the financial provisions for the Home Rule bill. Sir Frederick Banbury, a London Unionist member, moved an amendment providing that the total payment from the Imperial exchequer to the Irish parliament should not exceed $12-500,000, exclusive of the amount saved in the Irish administration by the transfer of certain service to the control of the Irish government. The House then adjourned.

There has been considerable opposition among members of the House during the discussion of the financial provisions of the Home Rule bill. Some seventy Liberal members have given voice to their objection to the Irish parliament being given control of the customs, as they argue such control would enable the Irish parliament to introduce protection.

The followers of William O'Brien only this morning announced their intention of withdrawing from the House during the proceeding of the committee on the financial clauses of the bill.

The government is considering its position in view of the adverse vote in the committee. The cabinet does not necessarily have to resign and is unlikely to do so in the face of the International crisis.

When the result of the vote was announced the Unionists cheered wildly.
Premier Asquith when he came in quietly announced that the sitting would be adjourned.

Snap divisions during the meetings of the committee of the House of Commons are frequent, although this is the first experience of the kind of the present government. Arthur J. Balfour, when he was premier, suffered in this way several times during his last parliament.

The manoeuvre to defeat the government was carefully planned by the Unionists. They were only forty short of their full strength in the decision, while the other parties, not expecting the vote, had not urged their members to attend so early in the day.

The government defeat will have the effect of dislocating the schedule arranged with a view of passing the bill before Christmas.

BELGIAN FORTIFICATIONS.

Both France and Germany Interested in Matter.

Namur, Belgium, Nov. 12.—That close attention was paid by both the French and German army staffs to the fortifications of Belgium has come to light through the sudden grave illness of General Marie George Picquart, formerly French minister of war, while staying here. It now appears that he and three other distinguished strangers were making extensive automobile excursions, during which they studied the ground with the aid of staff maps.
A sensation was caused when it was learned that the party was composed of prominent French staff officers, including General Picquart.

Public excitement was intensified by news that a month ago a party of German staff officers passed over the same ground and carefully examined the fortifications.

REMAINS CONSERVATIVE.

London, Nov. 11.—The result of the bye-election at Taunton to-day was a majority of 285 for the Conservative candidate. The figures were: Willis, Conservative, 1882; Schunk, Liberal, 1597.

EXTRA SESSION OF CONGRESS POSSIBLE

PRESIDENT-ELECT WILL ISSUE ANNOUNCEMENT

Revision of Tariff and Other Matters Require Immediate Action

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 12.—President-elect Wilson said to-day that he might make an announcement within a few days as to whether or not he would call an extra session of congress to revise the tariff. He had intended delaying an announcement along this line until after his return from his proposed vacation, about December 15. It was suggested to him to-day, however, that congressmen would benefit by an early announcement, in that they could arrange for conveniences in Washington for a definite period.

"I hadn't thought of that," said the governor. "Of course, I don't see any public need for announcing my decision now, except, perhaps, to quiet any speculating as to whether there is going to be early action or not."

Governor Wilson expects to name, along with the other members of his cabinet, an executive for the proposed department of labor.

"I hope there will be a new member of the cabinet for the department of labor," he said. "It will be a very important selection to make, everybody confidently expects it, and I have been told that all sides in congress favor the new department. The immediate creation of the department is, of course, dependent on the action of the approaching session of congress."

FOR PROTECTION OF AMERICAN INTERESTS

European Powers Undertake Task, but U. S. Warship on Way to Turkey

Washington, Nov. 12.—The European powers have undertaken to extend protection to Americans in Turkey. The various American embassies in Europe were instructed when informing the various nations of the decision of the United States to send the cruisers Tennessee and Montana to the coast of Asiatic Turkey to inquire whether provision had been made or was contemplated by them in the interest of American citizens in Turkey. Replies indicate instructions were issued by Great Britain and Russia, anticipating the desire of the American government.

Philadelphia, Nov. 12.—With officers and crew pinned for the trip, the armored cruisers Tennessee and Montana will sail to-morrow for the Mediterranean Sea to protect American interests in Turkey. The big warships, fully equipped, left their berths at the Philadelphia navy yard this afternoon and anchored in midstream of the Delaware river.

Mr. Thompson coming from Fort Frances, Ontario.

TRIES TO CUT HEAD OFF.

North Vancouver, Nov. 11.—On Sunday morning about 10.30 o'clock a Chinaman named Kas was found in a shack on Sixteenth street by his brother, Ling, in a mutilated condition, having tried to commit suicide by an effort to cut his head off with a hatchet. The police were immediately notified and the wounded man was then taken to the North Vancouver hospital, where he was attended to by Dr. Dyer.

SUFFERED EVERYTHING

For Years, Restored To Health
by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Canadian women are continually writing us such letters as the two following, which are heartfelt expressions of gratitude for restored health:

Glanford Station, Ont.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and never found any medicine to compare with it. I had ulcers and falling of womb and doctors did me no good. I suffered dreadfully for years until I began taking your medicine. I feel so rejuvenated and in good digestion." — Mrs. HENRY CLARK, Glanford Station, Ont.

Chesterville, Ont.—"I heard your medicines highly praised, and a year ago I began taking them for falling of womb and ovarian trouble.

"My left side pained me all the time and just before my periods which were irregular and painful it would be worse. To sit down caused me pain and suffering and I would be so nervous sometimes that I could not bear to see any one or hear any one speak. Little specks would float before my eyes and I was always constipated.

"I cannot say too much for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, for there are no medicines like them. I have taken them and I recommend them to all women. You may publish this testimonial." — Mrs. STEPHEN J. MARTIN, Chesterville, Ontario, Canada

INTERIOR DEMANDS REDUCTION IN RATES

People Will Submit Their Case to Judgment of Railway Commission

Nelson, B. C., Nov. 12.—Reduction of freight rates between eastern points and Kootenay, reduced passenger rates on lake steamers and provision for the purchase on trains of return and excursion tickets at the usual reduced rates, will be among the matters to be brought before the railway commissioners at the session to be held in Nelson December 2.

"The Spokane case," which resulted in a reduction of one-sixth being given in freight rates from eastern points to the Inland Empire capital, will be quoted by the Nelson board in pressing its claims for lower rates to Kootenay points.

The application for lower passenger rates on lake steamers was brought before the board about three years ago at the suggestion of F. W. Goddard, of Cowley, Alta. At that time it was adjourned in order that some further particulars might be furnished by counsel for the railway in response to a request by the chairman of the board for information as to the proportion of the rate for through tickets which was charged against the lake territory.

Fruitvale has brought up the question of the purchase of return tickets on trains, travellers using the railway from that point and from others where no agents are located being prevented from enjoying the benefit of reduced return and excursion rates because such tickets cannot be purchased on trains.

"Reduced rates for return tickets appear to us to be a mockery and not a privilege, as we can only purchase single tickets on trains, and there is no agent in our station. Residents at any other points are in the same unfortunate position," say the Fruitvale people.

REVOLUTIONIST ARRESTED.

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 12.—Colonel Pasqual Orozco, sr., father of the leader of the Mexican revolution in the north, was arrested here to-day by military authorities and detained in the guard house at Fort Bliss. Army officers and secret service men refuse to give the charge on which the aged revolutionist is held.

Orozco recently was freed from local courts after forty days' detention without trial on an extradition charge. The arrest is the first application of the recent decision at Washington to permit the military to exercise martial law in prevention of violation of the neutrality laws.

LITTLE SHAVERS DROWNED.

Belleville, Ont., Nov. 11.—A sad event occurred at Campbellford, when a double drowning took place, the victims being children aged 4 and 3 years, Max and Donald Doxey, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Doxey, and nephews of Mayor William Doxey, of that town. The children were out playing in the yard along the Trent river, above the dam. No one witnessed the tragedy, but it is surmised that the younger child followed a ball into the water and was engulfed, and that the elder child went to his rescue and was himself caught in the stream.

CONSTERNATION IN SEATTLE POST OFFICE

Millions of Diphtheria Germs Let Loose, Almost Creating a Panic

Seattle, Nov. 12.—Several million diphtheria germs started a riot in the mailing room of the Seattle postoffice to-day, and but for the prompt action of Charles I. Lynch, superintendent of mails, every clerk in the office would to-night be seeking vaccine treatments. The millions of letters and pieces of mail might be sweltering under a cloud of formaldehyde, and the entire office undergoing a general fumigation.

The trouble was all caused by a Canadian physician, who dropped a bottle filled with the germs in the mail, and expected Uncle Sam to deliver it without further trouble. All would have been well if the bottle had not broken. The bottle, however, did break, the germs were discovered, and it was only due to the fact that Superintendent Lynch removed the package at once from the office that the mails did not become infected.

The germs were contained in an innocent-looking package mailed at Vancouver, B. C., and wrapped in an ordinary envelope. There was nothing on the outside to indicate its dangerous contents. Inside was a glass vial containing the culture, the vial being wrapped in cotton. That was the only protection given the receptacle, and when the clerk sorting the mail found the glass broken inside the envelope he investigated to ascertain the extent of the damage. Without any premonition of what he was delving into he opened the envelope, and picked up the vial. Examining one of the pieces of glass, he found a small label. Interested, he started to read the label, when fellow clerks heard him give a loud shriek of alarm and drop the package as if poisoned.

One more venturesome than the others picked it up and read on the label "Diphtheria Culture."

RAILWAY COMMISSION.

Hearing Cases Between Farmers and Railway Companies.

Winnipeg, Nov. 12.—The Railway Commission heard 17 of 23 cases this morning. Reciprocal demurrage between the railway companies and shippers was the biggest case discussed. After hearing arguments alleging grave losses in transit sustained by farmers, by counsel for the Winnipeg Board of Trade, the commission gave the railways one month to prepare arguments supporting their side of the case. Rulings will be handed down later on receipt of information. The demurrage claimed is one dollar a day.

This afternoon the board will give rulings regarding what the railways must do to make practicable the sample market. The Fort Rouge, Winnipeg, cut-off case will also be re-opened on account of public protest.

SNEED ON TRIAL.

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 12.—The second trial of John Boale Sneed, banker and cattleman, charged with killing Al. Boyce, was begun here to-day.

CHOLERA IN TURKEY.

Constantinople, Nov. 12.—The sanitary situation of the Turkish troops at Hadomei is deplorable. One hundred cases of cholera, of which fifty have resulted fatally, are reported among the soldiers.

CANADIAN RECESSIONAL

With the certainty that the Borden naval policy will propose a contribution of some thirty or forty millions of money to the Imperial government as a temporary expedient, and in order to secure longer time for the mellowing of the conflicting sentiments now disrupting the Borden party, the question of paramount interest is whether Mr. Borden intends to recede from the position accepted by the Dominion in the last Imperial conference. Mr. Asquith when asked recently whether it had been agreed by the British government to give Canada a voice in Imperial defence affairs, replied in the negative. He said that secret negotiations were being conducted, but nothing had been decided upon. The mere fact that negotiations are going on has thrown consternation into the government circles of New Zealand and Australia, both of which dominions have decided to carry out the programme of defence agreed on at the Imperial conference.

Recent British advices suggest that Mr. Borden intends to propose that a sum of unstated millions be voted to the Imperial government for the purpose of constructing warships. The question of the ownership and control of these ships, Mr. Borden will suggest, is to be left in abeyance until they are completed. These advices, if they have the slightest foundation in fact, would go for nothing more than to prove that Mr. Borden has elucidated a third policy of procrastination and evasion in his attempts to settle upon a definite policy in order to save his disintegrating government. To commit Canada to a contribution of many millions of dollars for the construction of warships, the ownership and control of which will be left to future parliaments to decide, is perhaps the weakest proposal which has yet emanated from the mind of the Prime Minister. It is a most complete recession from the programme agreed upon between the overseas dominions in the conference where Imperial naval defence was the chief problem to be solved in allotting responsibility and privilege in maintaining the integrity of the five nations.

Australia has protested already that there has been a departure from the definite policy agreed upon and under which the Commonwealth has proceeded a creditable distance. Australia claims that this programme should not be altered without another Imperial conference.

Australia and New Zealand are both committed to the policy of a Pacific navy, and New Zealand has joined with Australia in her protest against the proposed revocation of their plans under the Imperial conference agreement. New Zealand formerly believed in the policy of a direct gift to the Imperial government, but she has reversed that policy to fall into line with the programme of the Imperial Conference. To find Canada now receding from that position has filled both these nations with alarm. There can be no denying that both Australia and New Zealand regard Mr. Borden's proposal as a desertion of the cause of Pacific defence, a mistake and a policy of reaction with which these two overseas dominions can have no sympathy.

This brings up a difficult constitutional question. As in the case of a country's dealings with foreign powers it has been found necessary to maintain a reasonable continuity of policy through all changes of home government, so in our dealings with the other members of the Empire there comes in the element of covenant keeping as a limitation to our own changes of policy. It is not nice to have sister colonies accusing Canada of having departed from a principle which they have adopted from her or in reliance on her attitude.

The suggestion that another Imperial Conference should be held to reconsider the whole question is not what Australia has proposed. To do this would be to arrogate to the Imperial Conference an importance which, under present ent Imperial relations, does not exist. What Australia declares is that a policy agreed upon between five nations should not be so lightly regarded as to be set aside because of the political exigencies of any party in power for the time being in any of the overseas dominions.

The Times believes that a thorough understanding of the unhinging and unbalancing tendencies of Mr. Borden's wobbly policies upon Imperial relations should drive parliament back to first principles and to the taking of a firm stand on the policy of carrying out the intercolonial agreement.

DUTIES ON STEEL

The outcome of the demand of the steel interests in Canada for an increase in the protective tariff on their productions will be watched with considerable concern. The same request was made to the Liberal government two years ago, when the period for which bounties had been authorized was about to expire. The appeal was turned down and in spite of the fervent petitioning of the steel manufacturers neither the renewal of the bounties nor the increase of protection was conceded. For four years previous to the end of the "bounty" period the bounties had been gradually reduced, and with their entire abolition the manufacturers claimed that the protection afforded them is inadequate, amounting, they say, to no more than 9 to 10 per cent, while their demand is for protection to the extent of 35 per cent.

The steel interests prefer that the bounties be not renewed and that a straight protective tariff be inflicted. The reason for this is obvious, as it is easier to compute the comparative value and importance of manufacturing industries in the Dominion when the taxpayers are in the full knowledge of what these cost. During the last year that bounties were in force the amount paid out was a little over $1,000,000, and the farmers and others who were taxed to make this payment considered it a goodly sum to expend in the nourishing of native industries. That was because they could calculate the exact amount this single industry was costing the country. The manufacturers of steel are shrewd enough to want to substitute straight protection for the bounty system, as under increased tariff protection no one will know what sum is being annually siphoned from the consumers of their products.

The general belief is that the government will be forced to yield to the demands of the steel interests. The plea is that the election which defeated reciprocity is an endorsement of the principle of high protection, and as Mr. Borden went into power on this issue they believe they have the whip hand. The permission to take a million dollars from the pockets of the people by means of a higher tariff would suit the steel men much better than a renewal of the bounty and direct payment. It is surmised that it would also suit the Borden government better. For this and other reasons the steel men are importuning the government to pay the price of its accession to power.

MR. BRYCE'S RETIREMENT.

The retirement of Ambassador James Bryce from Washington is interesting, not so much from the fact of his retirement as for his reasons given for taking the step. Mr. Bryce is disheartened because that child of his sympathetic soul, the Arbitration Treaty, was repudiated by the United States senate. It is needless to say that for such a denouement Mr. Bryce could in no way be held responsible, yet it is not difficult to understand how one with so sensitive a nature would smart under the pain of undesired defeat.

Unfortunately there prevails in a large section of the United States a popular notion that British diplomacy is more to be feared than war. This feeling exists extensively in that section of the populace from which the senators are drawn. With the dual fair proportion of exceptions, the senate of the United States is constituted of men who cherish a suspicion of Great Britain. They are as yet not quite big enough men to survey the whole field of international relationships as it affects the question of world peace. There are besides these many others who are sensitive on such questions as national honor, though they are perhaps themselves incapable of appraising those moral and material considerations which determine questions of national honor. It is at the feet of these that responsibility must be laid for the defeat of the arbitration treaty. One can conceive Ambassador Bryce asking the vulgar question, "What's the use?"

The failure of this undertaking to which Mr. Bryce had committed himself will make little difference in the status quo of international relations. What would have resulted had the treaty been completed would have been an impressive moral object lesson to the whole world. It is the loss of this moral prestige rather than the shadow of any evil that is to be deplored. Though Mr. Bryce failed to bring his scheme to a conclusion, no one can know entirely what may be the future developments from the plans which he laid and the negotiations which were carried almost to a success.

Mrs. Grover Cleveland is to be married again, thus indicating a satisfactory solution of the problem that has worried the people of the United States, "What shall we do with the widows of our ex-presidents?"

A prince among shrewd commercial men once said advertising will not cover a multitude of merchandising sins. Not even governments can keep the confidence of the electorate unless they once in a while deliver the goods.

With reference to the article in the Times last evening discussing the coal situation, the manager of one of the local companies gives an assurance that with the resumption of mining in the properties of the Canadian Collieries there will be no shortage of fuel in Victoria this winter as far as the patrons of that company are concerned.

Mr. Job Hedges, the Republican candidate for the governorship of New York, has been describing Tammany as the vestibule of Tophet. The term is picturesque and expressive, and is fairly sure to be remembered. And there is a political organization existent in Victoria modelled on the same lines which, if permitted to go unchecked, will earn for itself a similar characterization right in this city.

The Asquith government, as the Irish government measure gets along in the committee stage in the House of Commons, is making concessions to the Unionists. The changes in the long run may not mean much, but the spirit shown in accepting them tends to disarm moderate opponents and make it possible for those who do not believe in extreme measures to find an excuse for urging peace. It may be some time before Ireland has a legislature sitting in Dublin, but opinion is being made familiar with the idea; and familiarity tends to remove fear.

COMBINING BUSINESS AND SPORT

From the Vancouver Sun.
Speaking of the juvenile of the Dominion Senate, Hon. Mr. Bostock, of British Columbia, the Senators tell a good story on him when they are in reminiscence of his origin and an enthusiastic lover of the national game, cricket. He has been ranching in the Coast province, though, like a good many other Englishmen in British Columbia, he has not been very successful ranching.

One day Senator Bostock was complaining to the late Senator Perley, of Saskatchewan, who was a real rancher, that he lost heavily in his ranching operations. Senator Perley made inquiries as to the number of hands he employed, and was astonished to learn there were some twenty-five men.

"Why, what do you want with that number of men?" inquired Senator Perley. "It is a wonder that you are not bankrupt."

"But how would I get my two eleven?" was the anxious reply of Senator Bostock, who, it turned out, had a cricket match every Saturday.

NO PANIC THERE.
From the Montreal Gazette (Can.).
"It will be noted that so far as Great Britain is concerned, where one man is worrying about war hundreds and thousands are concerning themselves about cricket matches and boat and horse races, and the new feature of the music hall shows. The world is not so foolish as those who think they make its opinions imagine it is."

AN AWKWARD MISTAKE.
From the Chicago Record-Herald.
"Why don't you advertise your business?"
"I don't believe in advertising."
"Oh, pardon me. I thought you were in something legitimate."

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TO-DAY

Victoria Times, Saturday, November 12, 1887.

It is reported that Lord Stanley will succeed the Marquis of Lansdowne as Governor-General of Canada.

Stephen.—At his residence, Craigflower road, on 12th instant, Mr. Edward Stephen, C. E., aged 58 years.

Dr. Milne delivered another of the interesting series of lectures on Hygiene in the high school on Friday afternoon.

Ald. D. Oppenheimer, of Vancouver, is in the city.

Mr. Sam Gray, Victoria's renowned stair builder, was a passenger to-day by the Mexico for the Bay City.

Mr. Hans Helgesen, ex-M. P. P. for Esquimalt, reached the city last night by way of Vancouver.

Early in the summer, Mr. T. J. Burnes let the contract for the erection of a brick block on his property fronting on Bastion square. The work has been pushed forward and the structure is now one of the most imposing and attractive in the city.

It is reported that the minister of militia would give only $40 per head for the transportation of "C" battery to Victoria, and that Vice-President Van Horne of the Canadian Pacific railway wanted $50. The minister talked about taking the arms off the men and sending them via American railways, but that would knock the military idea of the Canadian Pacific on the head, and Sir Adolphe collapsed.

Singer Arrives.—Miss Eva Mylott, who has been three or four months in New South Wales touring and visiting her friends after nearly ten years' absence, arrived by the Makura to-day. The Australian contralto will hurry on to New York, where, as in other cities, she has important oratorical engagements for the "Messiah" awaiting her. Miss Mylott brings with her Miss Hilda Alken, a musician popular in Sydney as pianist and singer.

Son of Earl of Jersey.—Hon. A. G. C. Villiers, a son of the Earl of Jersey, arrived from Australia this morning en route to Vancouver. He has been making a tour in the Antipodes, and although booked to the Terminal City, dropped off to see this city.

Apparatus Tests.—Yesterday the apparatus tests for the senior gymnasium class at the Y. M. C. A. were carried out by H. G. Beall, the instructor, and from the results of examination, the class was divided up into five squads which will operate at different times. The three members to total the highest number of marks were Messrs. Christie, Schutz and J. E. Meyers.

B. P. O. B.—All officers and members of the Benevolent Protective Order of Beavers are requested to attend the next general meeting, at Eagles' hall, Government street, Monday next, at 8 p. m. Gonzales Chapter Meets.—The Gonzales chapter of the Daughters of Empire met yesterday afternoon at the residence of the regent, Mrs. Curtis Sampson. Miss Campbell, recently arrived from India, where she was associated with the work of the Daughters of Empire, spoke on the subject as it is worked out in that country. Members were reminded of the demonstration of dancing which is to be given by Miss Sweepstone on Thursday, November 23, at the Alexandra Club, under the auspices of this chapter.

The "Cowes" of the Pacific.—Randolph Stuart, secretary of the citizens' committee, had an interview with Sir Thomas Layton yesterday and was able to make the announcement afterwards that the great yachtsman has promised to act as one of the patrons of "Victoria Week," which takes place the first week in August, 1913. Sir Thomas was greatly struck with the idea of the yacht racing and gala on the water. He designated the stretch of water lying just outside the harbor as the best he had ever seen for the purpose of sailing. Like many other men who have visited Victoria, he has become convinced that this city offers the same inducements to the racing yachtsman as does Cowes in the Old Country.

MARINE SURVEYOR ARRIVES FROM SYDNEY

Brother of Mr. George Sangster Renews Fraternal Association After Many Years

Captain A. Sangster, a brother of George Sangster of this city, arrived on the Makura this morning from Sydney on a visit to his brother, who met the visitor at the outer wharf.

The captain has not seen his brother for nearly thirty years, and naturally the reunion was a welcome one. Captain Sangster has been for the past 16 years marine surveyor under the New South Wales government at the port of Sydney, where the third largest amount of work done at any port in the world in the way of marine surveying is carried on.

Prior to that time he was at sea for 15 years, but this is the first time he has sailed in the North Pacific ocean. The lighting of the coast from Carmanah Point brought commendation from the captain, who was called from his berth at an early hour this morning by Captain Gibb, commander of the Makura, to see this example of the Canadian marine and fisheries department, for which he has the highest praise.

The captain says he is only making a stay of a few weeks in Victoria, returning on the Makura on her next southbound trip. He spoke of the enormous business transacted in marine matters in Port Jackson, but said he had no observations to make with regard to the effect of the Panama canal on Australian trade, observing that his duties were not of a commercial nature.

He was glad to see something of conditions here, and was naturally interested in the procedure in the profession to which he belonged as practiced on the Canadian side, and intended to look into the subject at once. Sydney, it was needless to say, was one of the most approachable harbors in the world, and the risks were remarkably few. Shipping interests were naturally anxious to maintain the high reputation which they enjoyed in that regard.

Bound from Bella Coola and way ports, the Roscovitz steamer Venture, Capt. Parks, will arrive in port tomorrow. She will sail in the evening.

With a large list of passengers and much freight the C. P. R. steamer Tees, Capt. Gilliam, left port last night for Clayoquot and way ports.

The Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada, intended at the end of the summer, to establish a steamship service between Canada and Europe, with Antwerp as European terminal port.

The sum of $8,000 marks has been voted for the extension of the new harbor at Cuxhaven, and $60,000 marks for providing special accommodation for the boats of the Hamburg-American line in that harbor.

News just received from Australia is to the effect the barquentine James Tuft arrived at Sydney some time prior to November 6 with a cargo of lumber from Tacoma, from which port she sailed on August 3.

Two German deep-sea fishing companies close their past year's accounts with a loss. The deficit of the Neptun Company, of Emden, is 78,159 marks, and that of the Vismurg Company, of Bremen, is 54,425 marks.

An 8,800-ton passenger and cargo steamer named the Sierra Ventura was launched on the Weser on October 12, for the South American service of the Norddeutscher Lloyd.

MANY MARINERS PASS.

Since James & Jarvis organized the Victoria nautical school here at the beginning of 1910, the following number of mariners coached at the school have successfully passed their examinations: One coasting master, 25 coasting mates, 5 foreign-going masters, 4 deep-water mates, 8 deep-water second mates, 4 tugboat masters and 1 inland certificate. A number of mariners are now being schooled there at present, and Capt. Jarvis says he will soon have to seek larger quarters.

RAN ON ROCKS, LOST CARGO OF FISH, THEN GOT RECORD HAUL

Everett, Wash., Nov. 12.—The fishing boat America, Captain Michael Keating, has arrived in this port from northern waters. The America was pounded nine days on a reef, and when she got off her fish cargo was spoiled. Forty days ago the America left Everett for the halibut grounds. As a storm was rising the crew grounded on a reef, Skidde Point, off the Queen Charlotte Islands. Fearing they would perish, Captain Keating and his crew of fourteen rowed fifteen miles to the island and camped.

For nine days the storm continued unabated. When fair weather broke the crew returned to the America, finding the craft badly battered but seaworthy. A full cargo of halibut was spotted and jettisoned. Then Captain Keating returned to the banks and made the largest catch on record by the America. When she arrived at Everett her hold and deck carried from 75,000 to 85,000 pounds of fish.

The America is seventy-five feet in length, is schooner-rigged and carries a powerful gasoline motor. She is owned by Keating and Rogers.

MONTREAL HARBOR BOARD.

Head of Allan Line Asked to Take Position.

Montreal, Nov. 12.—Andrew A. Allan, local head of the Allan line and president of the shipping federation, it is reported, has been asked by the government to accept the position of chairman of the harbor commission. Mr. Allan will arrive in Montreal by the Virginian on Saturday.

THE CRY FOR LAND.

Conspicuous in British Cities Inducing Inhabitants to Come to Western Canada—Interesting Letters.

A noticeable feature of the correspondence at the Vancouver Island Development League has been the number of people, living in the great towns and cities who express themselves as anxious to get "back to the land." With the overcrowding in London, Liverpool, Manchester, Glasgow and other places, there has been an attendant desire to avoid the congestion which has sprung up and to acquire land fit for farming and grazing.

A Bradford architect complains, in a letter received this morning, that it is "almost impossible to make a decent living in England nowadays," and expresses his determination to come West. Similar sentiments were also expressed in a communication from the Isle of Wight. According to this correspondent, "The Garden of England" is rather sterile in business opportunities just at the present time.

Another letter from an ex-soldier in the British army states that he is bringing his hard won savings out to Vancouver Island to set up in a chicken ranch. A Scotch contractor and builder is another correspondent of the league, and he says in his epistle received this morning that he intends coming to Victoria in the coming spring.

RECEIVED 20,000 VOLTS

And Lineman Still Lives, After Fall of Twenty-five Feet.

Grand Forks, B. C., Nov. 12.—After having been electrocuted with a current of twenty thousand volts, Thos. Kelly, a lineman of this city, an employee of the South Kootenay Power Company, still lives by the counteraction of a fall of twenty-five feet to the ground from the cross-arm of a pole on which he was working.

Kelly was operating on a pole at Phoenix, and in grabbing a telephone wire which was on the same pole as the electric power wires made a short circuit, current passing through his body from either arm. A fellow employee, A. LeGault, pulled him from the wires by means of a rope. Kelly fell to the ground and for a time appeared dead. He has since revived, and it is believed by medical practitioners that the fall to the ground was responsible for the reaction of the heart. The fall, however, has affected his spine, paralyzing his lower limbs. He is as possible Kelly will be taken to Spokane for special treatment.

ROOSEVELT'S ASSAILANT.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 12.—John Schrank, who attempted to assassinate Theodore Roosevelt here, refused to go to the time of going into court to-day for his trial to indicate whether he would plead guilty to the charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, under which he has been held in the county jail, or whether he would change the plea he offered in the preliminary and declare himself not guilty. Regardless of Schrank's plea or desire, District Attorney Winfield Seabert was prepared to make short shift of the case, he announced.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 12.—John Schrank pleaded guilty to-day to the shooting of Col. Roosevelt. The court decided to appoint a commission to examine Schrank as to his sanity.

FALL IN GASOLINE.

Tacoma, Wash., Nov. 12.—Nine thousand gallons of high grade gasoline contained in one of the large steel tanks of the Standard Oil Company on the tide flats was lost yesterday, at 11 o'clock when the tank cracked open halfway up the side. Workmen of the oil company, drenched to the skin with gasoline, worked frantically under the veritable carter attempting to catch part of the gasoline in barrels and tubs. Nearly 500 gallons were saved by the men, and the balance was practically evaporated by the fumes of the quickly evaporating fluid. Manager G. H. Richardson says the tank was an old one, and had probably rusted through sooner than had been expected. The loss is about $2,000.

COMMISSION TO OPERATE ROAD.

Ottawa, Nov. 12.—It is understood that the National Transcontinental Railway Commission has practically decided to operate all completed sections of that portion of the line between Winnipeg and Moncton after December 1. The commission will take charge of transportation for 150 miles east and west of Cochrane and also of the steel. Negotiations are still in progress for taking over of the Winnipeg-Superior Junction section.

NANAIMO OBJECTS TO MAIL EXCLUSION

Have Petitioned Local Board to Operate in Their Favor With Railway Company

The freight committee of the Board of Trade met this morning to consider a report from the people of Nanaimo that the C. P. R. are unwilling to include the Coal City in their new mail contract for the Gulf.

At the present time the contract includes Nanaimo, but the company are evidently not favorable to the idea. Nanaimo is very strong in resisting any such attempt to restrict their means of enjoying communication with other parts of the Island. The local Board of Trade is heartily in accord with the position taken by the city affected, whose people think that such a proceeding would affect the interests of both Nanaimo and Victoria.

Nanaimo citizens have taken the matter up with their parliamentary representative, and they urge upon the Victoria Board of Trade to adopt a like course before the members of the House leave for Ottawa.

C. P. R. STRIKE IS NOW EXTENDED

FREIGHT HANDLERS AT MONTREAL JOIN IT

Further Additions Expected To-day—President of Union Issues a Statement

Montreal, Nov. 11.—Three hundred of the C. P. R. freight handlers went on strike this morning until their demand for a board of inquiry to investigate their grievances is granted. It is expected that by night eight hundred will be out.

It was announced that the Toronto men would also go out to-day, the two big cities following the example of the men of Ottawa, Calgary, Fort William, Sudbury, Smiths Falls and other places. The men here claim that 500 of their fellows are already out at Fort William, while 200 have gone out in Ottawa.

The work at the capital, it is said, is now being done by Poles and others without experience, re-enforced by eleven clerks sent up from Montreal. Statements emanating from railway officials that no disruption of business has been caused in Ottawa are contradicted by the strikers, who declare the leading wholesalers in the city are unable to obtain their goods.

A statement was given out this morning by A. R. Mosher, of Halifax, president of the men's union, in which grievances are set forth and the men's position outlined. The men, Mr. Mosher said, are prepared to abide by the decisions of any independent tribunal on earth, and the moment such tribunal is appointed they will return to work. Their organization has been incorporated under Canadian laws since 1908, and now extends from St. John, N. B., to Vancouver, B. C., including ticket agents, station policemen, car checkers, freight clerks and others engaged in handling freight. Many of these men, the president said, worked twelve hours a day for $40 per month, while the case was cited of a man who only got $15 per month.

Mr. Mosher objected to what he described as misleading reports supplied to the press by the railway, and expressed indignation at the refusal of the railway and the minister of labor to recognize the men's union, though it was four years in existence and was now of national character. The letters sent to Mr. McNicholl, he said, had not been replied to, and when the minister of labor was invoked he refused to comply with their request for the appointment of a board of conciliation.

Asked this morning to state their position in view of the latest developments of the strike, the C. P. R. replied that they could not give out a statement so early in the day.

EDITOR OF SOCIALIST PAPER SHOT HIMSELF

Attributed His Act to Struggle Under the Competitive System—Worried Over Suit

Girard, Kas., Nov. 12.—J. A. Wayland, founder and editor of the Socialist Worker, shot himself in his home in Girard early yesterday. Mr. Wayland was unconscious when found by his housekeeper shortly after midnight. He died a few hours later. He had fired a bullet into his mouth, mauling the sound in the bed clothes. Between the leaves of a book lying on the bed the following note was found:

"The struggle under the competitive system is not worth the effort; let it pass." Friends of Mr. Wayland attribute his act to despondency over the death of his wife, who was killed in an automobile accident a year ago, and worry over an impending prosecution against his paper by the government.

JUMPS INTO INLET.

Man Leaps From Deck of Tug and Drowns.

Vancouver, Nov. 12.—A man believed to be James McConnell, of Blaine, Wash., committed suicide this morning by jumping into the inlet from the deck of the tug Nanosee. He left his overcoat, coat and trousers on the deck of the tug and in the pockets of the garments were found papers and receipts made out at Blaine in the name given. It is believed that the man, intent on committing suicide, concluded that he could partially escape on the deck of the tug with less chance of discovery than if he took off his clothes on the wharf.

Adam Portello, who chanced to be on the wharf a few minutes after 7 o'clock this morning, heard a splash, and on going to the side of the deck he was able to see in the dim light the head and shoulders of a man who was struggling in the water. The body sank in a moment and was not observed to reappear. In the pockets of the clothes found on the deck of the Nanosee there was a bankbook which noted that its owner, James McConnell, had $25 on deposit in the Bank of British North America.

ELECTION IN HOCHELAGA.

Montreal, Nov. 12.—From the present appearances the only person to oppose Hon. Louis Coderre in Hochelaga will be Leopold Boyon, who will run as Independent Labor Party candidate.

The nominations are fixed for 2 o'clock this afternoon. Mr. Eremont confirms the report that he will not run as an Independent Liberal candidate.

WILL BORDEN UPSET CONFERENCE PLANS

Emergency Proposal Causes Uneasiness in Australian Commonwealth

(C. L. Sibley in Montreal Witness.) Many serious questions are raised by the "emergency contribution" to the British navy which some of Mr. Borden's followers confidently expect him to propose when parliament meets within a few days.

If Mr. Borden can show that this emergency contribution is to meet a real Imperial emergency, and not to meet the emergency of a Canadian political exigency, there can be hardly any doubt that the Canadian people will be only too willing to back him up.

But the manner in which the attempt has been made to educate the people of Canada up to a recognition of Imperial emergency, has created the suspicion in many minds that the contribution is to be called an "emergency contribution" simply to permit Mr. Borden to escape what the Canadian people have a right to expect of him, and that is the laying down of a permanent policy in regard to this naval question.

If Mr. Borden is to lift the naval question above the plane of party politics, as he has expressed a desire to do, he must first dispel that suspicion.

As a matter of fact, unless Mr. Borden has information such as has not yet been vouchsafed either to the public of Canada or the public of Great Britain, no sudden emergency has arisen. The massing of the British fleet in home waters has been the gradual work of years. The competition with Germany in the building of Dreadnoughts has been going on for a long time, and the measures which the British government has adopted to meet the requirements of the situation have kept the British navy overwhelmingly superior to the German navy. These measures are not emergency measures. They are part of a well-considered permanent programme.

At the Imperial conference in 1909, this whole subject of German competition and Imperial defence was considered, with the result that a policy for the establishment of local navies by the Overseas Dominions was decided upon, with the emphasis placed, not on the emergency, but on the spokenness of the Imperial government.

If that policy is now to be abandoned, why have not the other Dominions represented in the Imperial conference been consulted?

Why is it that Australia is proceeding with her scheme for the establishment of a Pacific squadron?

Why is it that New Zealand, who distinguished herself some years ago by presenting a Dreadnought to the Imperial navy, has now abandoned the policy of direct contributions of battleships to the Imperial navy, and has within the past few weeks signified her intention of co-operating with Australia in the formation of a Pacific squadron?

It may be argued that New Zealand and Australia are different from Canada, and are more in need of the protection afforded by the presence of a local navy.

If that is so, why have these dominions not been consulted? Why have they not been apprised of the proposed abandonment by Canada of her share in the scheme on which all the Overseas Dominions agreed at the Imperial conference of 1909?

What is to happen to all our fine schemes of Imperial federation, to all the high hopes we have founded upon these Imperial conferences, if Canada is to back out of policies agreed upon after the most careful consideration by the representatives of all the Overseas Dominions?

These questions have not been touched upon by the apologists of an emergency programme. But they are creating great uneasiness in other parts of the British Empire.

For instance, a Canadian Associated Press, on October 28 last, states that this new development in the Canadian policy is viewed with serious apprehension by the Hon. G. F. Peares, minister of defence, and it adds: "Prominent publicists agree with Mr. Peares in viewing with concern the apparent abandonment of the 1909 agreement, which, they say, should not be altered except with Australia's full understanding and consent."

Apparently, the news of the sudden emergency which, according to a portend of the party press, Mr. Borden has discovered, has been communicated to the minister of defence for the Commonwealth of Australia.

Does it not look as though Mr. Borden's "emergency" is the necessity, for Canadian political purposes, of sidestepping any pronouncement on Canada's permanent policy?

Again, there are many powerful advocates in Canada of "His Majesty's Canadian navy," despite the unpopularity start which was given that navy by the Laurier administration. These advocates form a considerable and highly influential portion of the Conservative party.

Look at British Columbia, almost solid Conservative Premier Sir Richard McBride is not only an advocate of a Canadian navy. He boldly demands it. Only on the 25th of last month, he reiterated his demands, when he addressed the annual meeting of the British Columbia Conservative Association at Revelstoke. At that meeting he said:

"Let us shortly be able to lay claim to a regular Canadian army and navy second to none in the world."

Sir Richard McBride has but recently been to England, yet he still insists on a Canadian navy, just the same as he did when in the British Columbia legislature on January 30 of this year, he said:

"The day is not far distant when the entire Dominion will come to such an appreciation of the situation as will justify Canadians joining with one voice in establishing a modern, efficient navy."

There is no doubt that the British Columbia Conservative Association at Revelstoke, at that meeting he said:

"Let us shortly be able to lay claim to a regular Canadian army and navy second to none in the world."

Now Doctors Say "Don't Drug"

No doctor can cure all diseases. That's all nonsense. They are "pre-tenders."

If you can't cure a man tell him so. Physicians use too many drugs. There are only a few drugs worth handling—I'll not name them—Dr. William Osler in a recent address to physicians.

I do not believe that the average length of human life would be diminished by an hour if all the drugs in Christendom were dumped into the sea—barrins, perhaps, half a dozen—Alfred Lefebvre, M. D., American H. U. man Association.

At last some of our eminent physicians are beginning to tell the truth about drugs. They have deceived the people just about as long as they can unless they check the advance of science.

It is science that has "shown them up." It has proved that electricity runs our bodies, and produces what we call life. It has shown that most all sickness and chronic disorders are due to lack of electric energy. It has taught us the worthlessness of drugs, that they are only poisons, and poisons don't cure.

The reason drugs don't cure is because they do not help nature. Nature needs electricity, nourishment, something that builds up. Drugs contain no nourishment—no electricity—just poison, which tears down.

The real way of curing is to restore electricity where it is needed, and pain and sickness will disappear. That's because electricity gives strength, power to the body, enabling every organ to perform its work properly, and when every organ is in a strong, healthy condition there can be no pain or sickness.

Wear Electro-Vigor while you sleep. It feeds a constant stream of electricity to your nerves, and they carry it to every organ and tissue of your body, restoring health and vim.

CHAMPION WILL MEET SEATTLE LIGHTWEIGHT IN NEXT BATTLE

Joe Bayley Signs to Fight Eddie Shannon on November 22
Bout With Sammy Goode Set Back a Fortnight
—Nothing Further From Calgary—

To satisfy Seattle fight fans that Joe Bayley is a real champion and at the same time give Victoria boxing enthusiasts a chance to witness the title holder in action, Manager Morris Condon yesterday signed articles for a four-round bout between Bayley and Eddie Shannon, of Seattle, at the Crown Athletic Club in that city. The bout will feature a fight bill that is being put on under the auspices of the Crown A. C. at the Dreamland rink on November 22. Cyclone Scotty will go on in the semi-final with Romeo Hagen, another Seattle ring product.

Shannon Has a Chance.
According to Kid Herman, the former lightweight star, this boy Shannon has an excellent chance of outpointing the Canadian champion in a short bout such as the men have signed for. The Seattle youngster is advancing rapidly and is a wonderfully fast and clever mit artist. He was chosen from a list of half a dozen boys to meet Bayley, because of his speed and ability to stand punishment. Special arrangements are being made by a number of Victoria fight fans to take in the trip, and Morris Condon is booking tickets for quite a crowd.

Goode Bout Postponed.
Word has been received from Prince Rupert that the bout between Joe Bayley and Sammy Goode has been postponed until November 20, the conditions of the bout having been previously agreed upon. Nothing further has been heard from Calgary, and Bayley's manager will not worry himself over the outcome of the Hyland-Burns-Scaler controversy. Hyland and Scaler will probably meet, but it will be for a money title and gold plated belt, and the fight will interest few outside of those present at the ringside.

HOCKEY GAINS POPULARITY AMONG THE BASEBALL FANS

Montreal, Nov. 12.—"Sam Lichtenhein is the czar of professional hockey. Ban Johnson's rule in the American baseball league is mild compared to the iron grip Lichtenhein has over all organized hockey," said Roy Burgess, representative of the new hockey league in the United States, including Detroit, Cleveland and New York. Mr. Burgess is in the city trying to nail down any loose hockey material that may be floating around.

The N. H. A. have competition to fear from other quarters than the Lester Patrick league on the Pacific coast. Several of last year's players will migrate to the Yankee association for the coming season. Ross, the proposed captain of the Wanderers, has it rumored, been sorely tempted to leave by an offer of $2,500 as opposed to the odd $1,500 he will get if he remains in this city.

Game is Popular.
When asked if the game had any chance of extensive popularity under the star-spangled banner, Mr. Burgess replied: "Wherever the ice can be got, either naturally or artificially, the game is well founded and has come to stay. The baseball players are supposed to be the highest paid professionals in the world, but let me tell you right now that instead of the usual baseball salary of $1,000 to $1,500, we pay anywhere up to $5,000 bones for good hot stuff. We can afford to pay these salaries, for we often have an attendance of 12,000, while in Canada it is unusual to have more than 5,000. Hockey has been the biggest epidemic we've had in the States for many a year. Of course the climate makes it impossible for the Southern States to enjoy the same privileges as we do, for a sheet of hard artificial ice wouldn't last more than a few minutes even in North Carolina."

LIVE BITS OF SPORT GOSSIP

George Kennedy suggests as a compromise of the six men vs. seven men hockey controversy that the first half of the N. H. A. schedule be played with seven men teams and the second half with six men teams. He figures that by the time the first half of the schedule is completed that players would be in first class shape for six men hockey at start of the second half of the schedule.

The annual meeting of the Wanderers Hockey Club elected the following officers:
President—Sam Lichtenhein.
Vice-president—R. R. Boon.
Secretary—J. R. Spears.
Directors—Art Ross, Ernie Russell, P. H. Kastele.

"Sibby" Nichol, the former Shamrock hockey player, is expected to sign up with the Toronto Hockey Club, Nichol played on the Pacific Coast last winter.

Jack Laviolette is back in Montreal and is talking "beeness" with the Canadians.

Catcher "Gaby" Street, the old Washington backstop, is once more on his way. The Providence Club has shipped him to Chattanooga.

By the time the National League moguls get through releasing managers, John McGraw and Fred Clarke will be the only veterans still on the job.

Chicago fans paid $110,508 to see the White Sox slaughter the Cubs for the Windy City championship. Each Sox got $578, which each Cub took down $519.

Roger Bresnahan, St. Louis Cardinals were the only National League team to win a series from an American League outfit this fall—and then Roger gets the gate. What's the use?

The Giants lost a world's series with Charles Faust chasing the links, and repeated the losing stunt without the services of Charles. That shows an average of 500 per cent. for the Kansas bug.

According to Roger Bresnahan, the Cardinals cleaned up between $30,000 and $40,000 last season. And he is still looking for his 10 per cent. of the profits.

The M. A. A. A. may enlarge its Peel street building.

There is talk of playing Lalonde at Toronto, but the chances are that he will hike back to the coast again.

Billy Nicholson has signed both Tommie and Harry Smith for the Tecumsehs.

"Newy" Lalonde told an Ottawa man at Cornwall recently that he would not play for Canadians under any circumstances this season. "He would like to play in Ottawa, but realizes that there is no chance of getting his release."

Toronto's professional hockey prices are: Boxes, holding six, for 20 games, $175; single box seats, $2; reserved seats, $1.25; standing room behind reserved seats, 75 cents; rush seats, 50 cents.
Amateur—Fifty cents to $1.

FORTY-SEVEN BALL LEAGUES UNDER WAY

Nearly Ten Thousand Professional Players Registered by National Commission

Auburn, N. Y., Nov. 12.—The report of Secretary John A. Farrell for the last year, to be presented at the annual meeting of the national association of professional baseball leagues in Milwaukee shows that the association comprises forty-seven leagues, embracing 322 towns and cities of the United States and Canada. The report says 3,287 players' contracts were promulgated, 1,729 "terms accepted" examined and promulgated, 2,168 players were reported released by purchase between national association clubs; 432 optional agreements were approved, 105 optional agreements were exercised, 3,425 players were reported for release, 948 players were reported for suspension, 325 players were reinstated, one player was declared ineligible, 239 players were selected by draft.

Many Disputed Cases.

The national board of arbitration passed on 936 disputed cases during the year and handed down decisions for the same and 132 cases are on hand for disposal at the annual meeting now in progress. The national league drafted 39 players and the American 38. Total amount received through this office for drafted players, including money refunded on National association drafts disallowed:

National League $43,000, American League $60,100, National Association $70,950, total draft money $174,050. Amounts on optional agreements $71,350. Amount paid for release by purchases of National association players $132,000. Grand total $380,700.

WOLVERTON CANNED.

New York, Nov. 12.—President Farrell of the New York Americans, has announced that Harry Wolverton will not be retained to manage the club next season. Wolverton's contract was only for one year and upon its expiration the manager will be a free agent. Wolverton was brought here from the Oakland, Cal., club. The local club finished in last place.

JOE A SHUTOUT ARTIST.

Star Twirler of Boston Red Sox Greatest Distributor of American League Goose Eggs.

Joe Wood, of the Boston Red Sox, who was the American league's greatest distributor of goose eggs last season, blanked five of the seven teams that faced him, Cleveland and Philadelphia alone escaping. "Smoky Joe" white-washed the Highlanders thrice, the Nationals, Browns and White Sox each twice, and the Tigers once. Three of the Bostonians' wins were marked by the narrowest possible, deciding score—1 to 0—the pitchers he conquered being Walter Johnson, who, like Wood, stood well up in the voting for the Chalmers trophy; Edgar Willett and George McConnell. When Wood kept the Tigers from the plate he had to toil for 11 innings, and then a fumble by Jim Delehanty was of great assistance to the Red Sox in getting their one run.

Wood was the lone American leaguer to reach double figures in whitewashes. Walter Johnson of the Nationals was the runner-up to Wood in using the brush, Ed Walsh of Chicago reached third, another Eddie—the left-handed Plank of Philadelphia—being No. 4.

Boston was the hardest team to whitewash and Chicago the easiest. All told there were 79 games in which one team was kalsomined and one contest in which both drew ciphers.

REMARKED ON THE SIDE

Changes Necessary on Local Fifteen.

There is plenty of time for the Victoria Rugby Union selection committee to patch up the weak gaps in the local McKeechins Cup team before the next game with the Vancouver All-Black. A wet and soggy field undoubtedly hampered the work of the selectors. Three-quarter line and may also have had some thing to do with Steele's poor kicking, but unless the latter can show an improvement on the game he played Saturday, it looks as if Victoria will be forced to change her full back. It is a pity that Williams, the wonderful kicker of the Wanderers, is not available for the series, for he, at least, would hold his own with Bullen, if not outpoint the Vancouver full back. Victoria also missed Dai Thomas on the three-quarter play, the Welsh international being just the aggressive ball carrier that is needed to stimulate the offensive strength of Victoria's fifteen. It is likely that the British Columbia Rugby Union will meet this week, when it is expected that Thomas will be granted permission to play. In any case the committee will make several changes. Carstairs will be back on the local forward line, and this will bolster the local forward division.

Tommy Burns is Another Sammy Lichtenhein.

Not content with getting away with a lot of terrible boxing exhibitions at Calgary, Tommy Burns must return to the glare of the calcium with an attack upon Joe Bayley's ability as a prize fighter. He says that Bayley is afraid of Hyland and announces that he will declare a new Canadian lightweight champion if Morris Condon does not sign articles to fight in Calgary at terms dictated by Tommy Burns. Indeed, and where oh where did this pug get any authority or right to make or break Canadian ring champions? Tommy forgets for the moment that when it comes down to acies, he is nothing more than a retired pugilist who is endeavoring to bully a promising lightweight into fighting at terms which give the aforesaid Noah Brusso everything but the title. Will Mr. Burns place himself in Bayley's shoes and consider the situation? It's a thousand to one shot that Burns would hoist his nasal organ at any offer such as he has tried to sign up Bayley with. Condon is going ahead booking Bayley for fights that will give the local boy a lot of schooling and also allow him to better his record.

Just Who Scaler Is.

Just how lowly Ernie Barrieau ranks as a fighter may be guessed from his defeat at the hands of Scaler, the Edmonton veteran who is endeavoring to "come back" via the championship route. Of all the ancient warriors of the ring, you have to take off your hat to Scaler. Old fight fans will have a faint remembrance of him as a showy lightweight but with absolutely no punch, about ten years back, but even then, when he should have been at his best, he could only secure draws with Scott, and other boys whom Bayley put away in his bouts. Scaler has retired a number of times and his occupation during his lay-off has not helped him any. It is a big joke, this threat of Tommy Burns to stage a battle between Hyland and Scaler for the lightweight title of the Dominion. Both of these men are foreigners, while Brusso, who claims to be a red-blooded Canadian, is casting slur upon the game and hardest hitting Tommy, pull this stuff all you like, in Calgary, but never again will you be given credit this side of the Rockies for being other than a sorehead and a grouch, to whom financial gain is everything!

Tinker Will Handle the Reds.

At last the National League magnates are untangling one of the worst situations that has ever cropped up in the major leagues. Official announcement has been made that Joe Tinker will handle the Cincinnati team, while Frank Chance is also the property of the Reds. Chance will probably be sold to one of the National League clubs, and peace once more will reign in the Lynch circuit. St. Louis could grab up the peerless leader without taking any chances, and this may be the intended move of the National League magnates. Chance and Fielder Jones appear to be the victims of popularity, in which the jealous magnate decided to get rid of a manager that had too strong a hold on the fans. Brusso's refusal to give up that twenty-five per cent. of the world's series receipts, and the Bresnahan case has to be cleared up. Then, and not till then, will the National League moguls have the pleasure of a decent night's sleep.

Improve American Rugby.

Writing particularly of the recent Carlisle-Varsity match, the Philadelphia Ledger makes some interesting comments on the kind of football played in Canada, and points out features which the American game could adopt with advantage. Passing is one thing that is highly spoken of and which the Americans should learn. The writer says: "The American game could be very greatly improved if we adopted some of the features of Canadian football. For instance, there has never been a great eastern team which attempted to make use of the side pass. In spite of the fact that the forward pass has been a part of our game for the last half dozen years, no one has made a systematic study of its possibilities combined with the side passes which have made the Canadian and English games famous."

TENNIS CLUB IN SPLENDID SHAPE

Growing Interest in the Sport Brightens Prospects of Local Club

That the Victoria Tennis Club is in a splendid and prosperous condition was shown by the secretary's report at the annual meeting of the club, which was held last evening. Greater progress is looked forward to next season, when the club officers hope to wipe out the debt now resting on the club. The expense incurred in laying out and equipping the new grounds fronting on Poul Bay road, made it impossible for the club to wipe out the debit balance of $1,457.20 this year, but efforts to clear this debt will be made next year.

Judge Lammiman Retires.
Capt. Foulkes was elected to the office of president, much regret being expressed at the retirement of Judge Lammiman, who was pressed to retain the office, but who stated his inability to do so.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Hon. president, His Honor T. W. Paterson; hon. vice-president, Hon. James Dunsmuir; president, Capt. T. J. Foulkes; vice-president, G. R. ## HAVE YET TO CROSS YALE'S GOAL LINE

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 12.—The list of unbeaten football teams in the east has narrowed down to four—Harvard, Yale, Pennsylvania State and Carleton. Of these the Indians were in one tie game so that only Harvard, Yale and Pennsylvania State have won all of their games. Yale is the sole eleven whose goal line has not yet been crossed.

SANCTIONED TRADE.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Official sanction was given to-day to the deal by which Joe Tinker will go to the Cincinnati club as manager, by John J. Evers, recently appointed manager of the Chicago National League club. All that remains to complete the deal is the naming of the Cincinnati players involved in the trade.

APPEALED TO THE NAVY TO SAVE THE COLORED CHAMPION

Washington, Nov. 12.—An appeal on behalf of Jack Johnson, negro pugilist, was made to Secretary of the Navy Meyer to-day in a letter signed by "Charles H. Edwards, General Delivery, Toledo, Ohio."
The writer felt that Johnson was not receiving fair treatment in jail in Chicago, and asked the secretary in prose and poetry to see that the world's heavyweight champion was not discriminated against because of color. The writer, concluding by wishing the secretary a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year and a line and a half of "kisses" at the bottom of the page. Acting Secretary Winthrop said there was no present intention of sending battleships to Chicago to help the prize-fighter.

WHALING OFF LABRADOR.

Exciting Chase Described By Novice at Great and Profitable Game.

How it feels to go whale-hunting is told vividly by Felix Koch in November Canada Monthly. He says:

"We were down the ladder and away in the six-oared dory in less time than it takes to tell. Six brawny arms, one to a man—for they sit double, do these Labrador oarsmen—were propelling us out to sea. Slower now, as we got into range of the whales—then still slower, and by and by, we had well-nigh halted. Then, when close enough in, suddenly one man arose. He clutched the harpoon—an expert, this fellow—and away it sped!

"But, they weren't taking chances this trip. The whale was too big and too full of oil to be lost. So, instead, they made ready the 'bum-gun.' Well they might, too!

"At the first prick of the long iron barrette, the whale 'was' off, like a flash. The barbs had released and caught in the whale's frame of bone; the rope went taut, and then spun off the reel as if impelled by chain-lightning! Out and off, and out and off, and away! You could see it fairly rolling. The whale, of course, had 'ducked'—and the rope along with him. We were being towed as for dear life. It was the ride of our lives!

"Then, of a sudden—interruption! The whale must come to the surface to breathe. And therein lay this preparation of the bum-gun.

"The rope told the story of where he lay—they would know, in a moment, where he'd rise. How? Well, that is a trick born only of long practice; only a whaler can tell.

"Up on the surface again the whale was blowing—when—Bang!—There was a shot, and a long explosive bullet darted through the air; splashed the sea and entered his hide. The shot, of course, was fatal; and the whale came to sudden halt. We set a long pole, with a flag at the end, into the carcass, and went away after more.

"And again there was that same delightful sense of a hunt after big game, plus the chance of actual reward, for the whalers. They 'snuck' up to a whale as you would to a sleeping bird in the night time. Made you think of the time you joined the village boys Halloween night to steal an ash barrel from the garden. Then, with the animal safely asleep in the sea, they would fire and at once despatch him.

"It seemed almost cruel—you felt sorry, really you did, for the slumbering leviathan there. But 'buck-fever' is soon overcome by the hunter. And so with the whales. By the time we'd slain three, I am certain, all that humane sense of pity was gone. So it's good that the rest of the whales were vanished, or we would have shot the others ourselves."

COAST CLUBS THROUGH WITH N. H. A.—EASTERN HOCKEY TEAMS AT "WAR"

Upheaval Looked for in Association—Patrick Brothers Wash Their Hands of Quinn, Lichtenhein, et al.—Hockey Migration to the Coast Will Start Soon

With the eastern professional hockey clubs fighting among themselves, everything appears rosy for a big season in the B. C. H. A. Dispatches from Ottawa state that the Senators will demand the return of Bruce Ridpath, the manager of the Toronto, or payment of $5,500. The former champions also state that they will play Fred Taylor on their defence regardless of the actor. The refusal of the latter body to revert to the seven man hockey system has angered the capital city sportsmen, and they are determined to stir up trouble. The eastern pot will likely be further heated when the National Hockey Association refuses to recognize Ottawa's claim on Bruce Ridpath. The latter is managing the Toronto pros, and his return to Ottawa would be a body blow to the game in Toronto.

Four New Players. Again, the N. H. A. have gone back on their decision of Saturday night, and have declared "war" on the coast league. Just how this will affect the coast clubs is hard to discern. The B.

C. H. A. officials have about completed arrangements with several of the best hockey players in the east. Fred Taylor included, to figure on the coast this season, and as the quartette have accepted terms, it is only a matter of a few days before they will be headed westwards. They will be divided between Vancouver and New Westminster. The latest declaration of the N. H. A. means that the Wanderers intend to hang onto Hyland and Johnson, and that the trade of Lalonde for Pitre has fallen through.

Through With N. H. A. Lester Patrick stated this morning that the coast league was through with the N. H. A. for good and all. Any league that will back up such a fire brand as Lichtenhein has not the real interests of hockey at heart, and the coast clubs have no desire to be associated with such sportsmen. Definite word from President Quinn has yet to be received, but if the press reports are confirmed, then the coast league will continue as an independent organization. A practice of the professionals will be held at the Arena to-night.

MINOR LEAGUE CLUBS ARE CONSIDERING SALARY LIMIT

Post Season Games Between Champions Suggested—Trades and Sales of Players in Prospect—Fielder Jones Talks of Northwestern Application for Higher Rating

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 12.—The question of salary limits for baseball players in minor league clubs will come up for lengthy consideration at the four day session of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, which was scheduled to open here at noon to-day.

The national agreement which was reached at a meeting in Cincinnati June 29 last, makes it necessary that the question be disposed of at this time.

Many Deals Expected. A suggestion of President H. H. Sexton to raise funds for conducting the affairs of the association through the playing of a number of post-season games between minor league teams under the auspices of the National Association also will be discussed. During the meeting a number of deals affecting players are expected to be negotiated.

WALTER SMALL

Cover point of the Victoria Hockey Club, who will again figure on the local defence—He is coaching the Y. M. C. A. hockey team in the City League.

ANYBODY WANT A GOOD MANAGER

There will be no end of prominent baseball managers looking for jobs next spring. Among them on the block are:

Kling, of the Boston Nationals. O'Day, of the Cincinnati. Chance, of the Chicago Cubs. Bresnahan, of St. Louis Nationals. Larry Schaffly, of Jersey City. Davis, of the Cleveland Naps. Wolverton, of the Highlanders. Duffy, of Milwaukee. Bud Sharpe, of Oakland. McGinnity, of Newark, and many others.

THURSDAY'S PROGRAMME

Joe Bayley turned out with the amateurs at the James Bay club last night and helped to shape up the local entries for Thursday night's big boxing festival at the Victoria theatre. He went on with Al Davies and Charlie Urquhart, all three displaying cleverness, though Bayley was working under wraps. The promoters announce their programme as follows:

110 lbs.—Albert Davies vs. New Westminster entry.
125 lbs.—Hamilton Urquhart vs. Buster O'Neill, Seattle A. C.; Jack Clements vs. Stanley Clements, Vancouver A. C.; Scott Cropper vs. Art Fox, Vancouver A. C.
135 lbs.—Scotty McKay vs. Duval, Seattle A. C.

145 lbs.—Harry Willis vs. Percy Gray, Vancouver A. C.; Frank Barrieau, Vancouver A. C.
Heavy.—Bernie Colt, J. B. A. A. vs. Phil May, Vancouver A. C.
Wrestling.—J. Middleton, J. B. A. A. vs. Al. Hatch, V. A. C.

JOHNSON SEEKS RELEASE.

World's Champion Cast Into a Cell With an Alleged Murderer at Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Attorneys for Jack Johnson, who is held in the county jail in default of a $20,000 bond on a charge of violating the Mann act, will go to the United States supreme court in an effort to obtain the release of the negro champion, they announced to-night. The contention will be set up that the Mann act is unconstitutional in that it deals with a crime over which states alone have jurisdiction.

Meantime Johnson probably will remain in his cell. Late to-day he was placed in a cage with James Brown, a negro cook charged with murder. The fighter's incarceration followed his vain effort to obtain a place in the hospital ward by feigning illness. A physician examined Johnson and thus diagnosed his case:

"His only trouble is cold feet." Immediately Johnson was ordered to vacate a comfortable chair in which he had been lying. Handcuffs were placed on his wrists and he was transferred to a cell in the negro section of the jail.

TOMMY BURNS' REPUTATION SUFFERS IN FAKE CHARGES

Morris Condon Denies All Knowledge of Alleged "Frame-Up" Reflects on Ability of Calgary Boxing Impresario to Handle Championship Bouts

Denying any knowledge of Billy Allen's alleged "fake" in the last Bayley-Alley fight, Manager Morris Condon stated to the Times this morning that the charges made by Joe Price, sporting editor of the Calgary (Albertan), in regard to this bout, contained news to both him and Bayley.

"Bayley entered the ring with the intention of emerging as champion. He felt confident that he could defeat Allen and did so on the level. If Allen was not in the best of shape, surely that was not the fault of either Bayley or myself. I do wish to state, however, that if Burns knew that Allen had not trained for this bout, and he must have been posted on the doings of the Ottawa boxer, then it is he and not Allen who is to blame for allowing such a man to enter the ring."

Laughs at Threat.

The charges of the Albertan sport writer implicate other parties than Allen and the local champion's manager is anxious to learn the whole story. The story goes on to tell of the better in the know gambling that Bayley would win inside five rounds, and of Allen giving away his ring togs, with the assertion that he would never need them again. Manager Condon laughs at the threat of Burns and Co. that they will ignore Bayley and his title, and points to the numerous offers of bouts down along the Coast as proof that Bayley will not pine away because of the refusal of the Middle West promoters to stage a real champion.

DAI THOMAS IS ELIGIBLE.

Welsh Three-Quarter Will Continue to Lead His Team in the Barnard Series.

Though Dai Thomas was prevented from playing in the McKechnie Cup contest at Oak Bay on Saturday, he will not be prohibited from lining up with the Victoria Welsh fifteen when that club take the field in their next Barnard Cup engagement. This announcement was made to the Times this morning by Secretary Scott, of the Victoria Rugby Union. The local officers are now in communication with the Vancouver Rugby club in an effort to have a meeting of the British Columbia Rugby Union held here on Saturday night for the purpose of settling the Thomas protest and other matters now before the union. Secretary Scott wishes to correct the impression that Saturday's match was played under protest by the Victoria Club, stating that the local team would never consider such an unsportsmanlike act.

BRASHEAR WANTS JOB.

Trying to Land Managerial Berth With the Sacramento Club.

Seattle, Nov. 12.—Norman (Kitty) Brashear, who started last season as manager of the Vancouver club, and who finished playing first base for Vernon, is after the job as manager of the Sacramento team in the Coast League. Jack Atkins, principal owner of that club, has been after a big leaguer to handle his club, and was particularly anxious to get Third Baseman McDonald of the Boston club. But McDonald does not want to come to the Coast, so Atkins will likely trade him to some other big league club.

WELSH THE VICTOR.

Given Decision on Points Over Matt Wells Last Night.

London, Eng., Nov. 12.—Freddie Welch, the English lightweight, regained his title of lightweight champion of Great Britain, in a 20-round fight last night against Matt Wells, the title-holder. The fight went the full distance, Welch winning on points. Honors were fairly even throughout. Welch was a slight favorite in the betting. There was some holding and the referee several times cautioned the men to box cleanly.

In the early rounds Welch had slightly the better of it, Wells' work being a little ragged. Both tried desperately in the final rounds to score a knockout. At the end of the 20th round Welch's right eye was nearly closed, but the referee considered that he had done the better fighting.

WELSH RUGBY CLUB.

MONEY THAT REALLY TALKS.

The Speaking Bank Note as a Protection Against Counterfeiting.

The question of protection against counterfeit bank notes is one which is being discussed in England just at present.

A member of the Royal Society recently showed the results of a discovery which he made, and by this means he is able to imitate copper or steel engraved bank notes so perfectly that the president of a large bank was unable to pick out the single genuine bank note out of a lot of ten which included nine of the kind reproduced by the author. It was intended to show the error of the prevailing opinion that bank notes cannot be imitated.

At the same time that this somewhat disconcerting news comes out a new remedy against counterfeit notes is proposed, this being the "speaking" bank note, and would a system of the kind be adopted the note will not only concern the eye, but will assert its genuineness in a loud and intelligible voice should it be placed in a phonograph.

In fact the note carries a given phrase which is inscribed on the edge just as on a phonograph cylinder, using a specially prepared paper for this purpose. Any kind of phrase can naturally be used, and its purport is of little importance, as it is designed simply to have a check upon the quality of the bank note by the use of the voice.

All that is needed is to put the note into a properly designed phonograph, when it will speak for itself, according to the present idea, while a counterfeit remains silent. The method is certainly an original one, but it would not seem a very hard matter to counterfeit the phonograph record as well as the note itself.—Scientific American.

THE LIGHT-HOUSE KEEPER'S STORY.

FROM the lighthouse at Lobster Cove Head, Bonaville Bay, Newfoundland, Mrs. W. Young sends her experience of Zam-Buk.

She says: "I suffered with eczema for seven years and to my great delight Zam-Buk has cured me. The disease started on my breast, and spread until it extended over my back. The itching and burning—especially when the affected parts were warm—was terrible; and yet when the eruption was scratched or rubbed, it turned to bad sores and caused great pain. I went to a doctor and tried various prescriptions, but seemed to get no benefit, so tried another doctor. Again I got no relief, so tried a third doctor, and then a fourth.

"Seven years is a long time to suffer, and I had got used to the thought that I never would be cured, when I saw a report in the Family Herald, telling how beneficial Zam-Buk was in cases of skin disease.

"I bought some Zam-Buk, and from the use of the very first box I saw it was going to do me good. I persevered with it, and the improvement it worked in my condition was really wonderful.

"It eased the irritation, stopped the pain, and the sores began to dry up and disappear. In short, I found Zam-Buk all that was claimed for it and within a very short time it worked a complete cure in my case.

"Since that time I have recommended it for several other cases, and in each it has proved its wonderful merit.

PREMIER'S DRIVER IN AUTO ACCIDENT

NEGLIGENCE CHARGED; ACCUSED IS REMANDED

Mrs. Wenger and Child Hurt
When Sir Richard McBride's
Children Being Driven Home

As a result of an automobile accident at Government and Douglas streets, near the fountain yesterday afternoon, in which Mrs. F. Wenger, wife of an employee of the B. C. Sand & Gravel Company, and her child were hurt, a young chauffeur named Ray Finlay, who was driving the car, was arrested, and this morning charged with reckless negligence while in charge of automobile number 2235. The car is owned by Sir Richard McBride, Finlay being the premier's chauffeur. At the close of the police proceedings this morning Finlay was remanded until Thursday, and admitted to bail, Neil MacKay, M. P. P., appearing with bondsmen who supplied the necessary $2,000 bail named by the magistrate.

Mrs. Wenger and her child, two and a half years of age, were taken to St. Joseph's hospital after the accident yesterday, where they were examined by Dr. Greaves, who pronounced them suffering from bruises and shock. They are reported this morning to be progressing favorably.

When struck by the car Mrs. Wenger was knocked to the ground, the front wheel passing over her body. The child, which was in her arms at the time, was thrown to the hard pavement. Mrs. Wenger was dragged some feet by the moving machine, and when it was stopped one of the rear wheels was found to be resting against the body of the infant. Both were covered in mud, and Mrs. Wenger had sustained cuts on the face, while there were bruises on the child's face and head.

Before being removed to St. Joseph's hospital they were taken into a house on Government street, where they were examined and ordered to the hospital by Dr. Greaves, who was passing in an automobile at the time. The police motor patrol took them to the hospital.

Where the accident occurred there was considerable congestion, the road-way being under repair and street cars approaching in opposite directions. The repairs to the road made it necessary for the traffic to go over to the right side of the thoroughfare. Mrs. Wenger, who was holding her child, was standing a short distance from the curb waiting the southbound car. She stepped into the roadway when she saw the automobile approaching, apparently with the intention of getting in front of the car for the moment and leaving the street clear for the automobile to pass on. Unfortunately the automobile skidded at a critical moment and bounded forward partly across the track, where Mrs. Wenger was standing.

In the automobile at the time were two of the premier's children, who were being driven home from school. When Mrs. Wenger had been cared for by those in the vicinity Finlay took the children to their home on the Gorge road, and then returned to the police station, where he reported the accident. It was on the order of the inspector that he was held in custody and charged.

Another accident occurred at midnight last night when as Manly Thompson, 337 Broughton street, stepped from the sidewalk to the road at Fort and Blanchard streets he was knocked down by a passing automobile. The front wheel passed over his body before the driver could stop the machine. Friends of the injured man, who were with him took him to St. Joseph's hospital, where he was found to be bruised and cut about the face. The name of the driver of the car was not taken, but the number was secured by those who were with Mr. Thompson. They say the car was number 149, the registered owner of which is R. Hall, Pembroke street. The matter will be enquired into by the authorities.

THE RAINIEST MONTH.

November Keeps Up Its Ill-Reputation in the Yearly Cycle—Storms to North and South Yesterday.

In Victoria, November is always the rainiest month of the year and this year has fair to rival its predecessors in this respect. Yesterday there was a heavy rainfall all over the region from British Columbia down to the State of Oregon, and almost half an inch fell in Victoria yesterday, while a thirty-knot wind was blowing from the south-east this morning.

At the mouth of the Columbia river, however, a gale with a velocity of 64 miles per hour was raging this morning from the east, and with the development of a high pressure area right to the south, the weather conditions for the near future look particularly unpromising.

There was another storm area to the north last evening as well, the centre of the disturbance being located over the Queen Charlotte Islands.

RETURNS FROM HONOLULU.

Victoria Citizen Has Been Holidaying in Capital of Hawaii.

J. W. Duncan, of this city, returned this morning from a visit to Honolulu, where he spent a most enjoyable time. He told the Times representative that the capital of the Territory presents a charming appearance at the present time, and there are many visitors.

He left the day of the United States election, and said there was the keenest interest in the result in the city, as throughout the Hawaiian Islands. They did not hear the result as the vessel sailed at 5 o'clock, in fact the Honolulu passengers had to put out to the steamer, owing to the quarantine, which prevented the vessel berthing, and passengers going ashore as usual.

He said he was just holiday making in the territorial group, and therefore had only the tourist's impressions, but he comes back particularly pleased with Honolulu as a winter resort for British Columbians, desiring a few weeks change.

MAYOR IN VANCOUVER.

Attending Executive of B. C. Union of Municipalities—Before Commission To-morrow.

Mayor Beckwith is in Vancouver to-day attending the meeting of the B. C. Union of Municipalities' executive. Occasion is being taken to lay the case of the union on municipal reform before the municipal commission, which has just returned from a thorough investigation of the conditions in the principal cities of the United States and Canada.

The executive meets to-day to prepare the case, and will to-morrow present it to the commissioners, who include H. A. Maclean, K. C., of this city. The Vancouver board of trade is also meeting the commissioners before the report is drawn up.

Mayor Beckwith said he expected before the session opened that the executive would meet the provincial ministers, but they particularly desired to embody in the proposed legislation provisions discussed at Revelstoke, which they felt would come with more force from the municipal commissioners.

HINDUS MEETING.

Committee Appointed to Take Up Immigration Matter on Sunday.

At a meeting held at the Friends' Hall on Sunday, the problem of the Hindu in Canada was once more discussed, this meeting having particular reference to the memorial sent by Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy to the Governor-General of India, and in which attention was called to the fact that the problem of Hindus in Canada was at present confined to the province of British Columbia. In this memorial attention was called to the fact that the Hindu was paid $2.60 per day instead of $3.00. When the mistake was discovered the Hindu was debited with the overpaid amount and there was a debit of about $35, which he had to work off. When the Hindu discovered he immediately left and sued for two months' pay. Judge Lampman was engaged on the case this afternoon.

ANOTHER PIONEER HAS CROSSED THE BORDER

Mrs. Margaret Michell Died Early This Morning—Formerly Lived in South Saanich

Old-timers will regret to learn of the death this morning of Mrs. Margaret Michell, wife of Thos. Michell, of 884 Queen's avenue, and one of the early pioneers of this city, who was well-known to old-timers both in Victoria and in the surrounding districts where she proved a valuable friend in times of sickness and hardship. For some time past Mrs. Michell had been suffering with a complaint of the heart, latterly, however, sufficiently to get about with almost her usual ability. She was 75 years of age, and is survived by her husband, three sons, John R. Michell, Kamloops; G. T. Michell, Cowichan; W. D. Michell, South Saanich; and three daughters, Mrs. P. O. Morley, Mrs. Thos. R. Smith, and Mrs. A. Menagh, of this city. The funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the above residence. Rev. Dr. Reed, assisted by Rev. Thos. Green, officiating.

Mrs. Michell was an ideal pioneer's wife. Of broad sympathies and capable, she won the respect and esteem of a wide circle of friends to whom she was ever ready to render a service. For many years she resided in South Saanich, where her husband and family developed one of the finest farms of the district.

JAMES BREEN PASSED AWAY IN MONTANA

Well Known Mining and Smelter Man Who Frequently Visited Victoria

Word has been received here of the recent death of James Breen, the millionaire mine owner and smelter man, who was well known here. He died at Anaconda. Mr. Breen was for many years identified with the early development of Rossland. The late Mr. Breen built the Trail smelter for Mr. Augustus Heinze, a Butte mining operator, now a resident of New York. He subsequently built the Northport smelter and later sold out his quarter interest in the enterprise for $600,000. Breen a few years later started a smelter enterprise at Cranford, Vancouver Island, in conjunction with other capitalists. He is no longer interested there. Mr. Breen frequently visited Victoria. He had a very interesting personality and his sociability made him many friends.

DIRECTORS' MEETING.

No General Secretary Appointed As Yet at Local Y. M. C. A.—Two Suggestions Approved.

At a meeting of the Y. M. C. A. board of directors which was held this afternoon three applications for the post of general secretary, made vacant by the resignation of E. M. Thomasson, were considered. All of these, however, after some discussion, were not accepted. Two suggestions were put forward by Mr. Bell, the acting secretary. The first of these was that a gymnasium class for policemen be started in the building, and the other that a special rate be given the ministers of the city in the hope that all will become members of the Association.

Both of the suggestions received endorsement from the board, and after routine business had been transacted the meeting adjourned.

MAY RUN FOR REEVE.

Reported That Mr. McAdam Will Be Candidate in Esquimalt.

The dissatisfaction expressed last night by the reeve of Esquimalt with the way in which the council is dealing with certain matters suggests the possibility of a lively council in the new municipality next January. It is reported that Councillor McAdam is being petitioned to run for reeve. Councillor McAdam has made no statement of his intentions, but he has friends who say he is to be asked to oppose Mr. Lugin for the leading office. Councillor McAdam headed the poll at the first election of councillors, and is said to have increased his popularity in Esquimalt since election because of his attention to municipal affairs; for his determined stand made on behalf of the householders, and his opposition to every effort to exclude the householder from the voters' list.

A MISUNDERSTANDING ARISES.

Residential Property is Inspected If Outside Fire Limits.

In reference to the criticism of the city building inspection made at the Building Trades Council last evening, the building inspector, Mr. Northcott, did not wish to discuss it, beyond to say that a statement made that the residential property under construction was not inspected was untrue. He said his practical man, Mr. Taylor, looked after these matters as naturally as time afforded, although the business blocks downtown. The field was so large at the present time that it was impossible for one man to look after it absolutely satisfactorily.

William Barton in the presence of a large number of the deceased man's friends. The following acted as pallbearers: Messrs. D. Leeming, A. G. Gerow, J. R. Collier, H. Austin and Capt. H. Paxton.

The funeral of the late Lee Toe Quon took place this afternoon at 2.30 from the B. C. Funeral parlors to the Chinese cemetery.

The death occurred yesterday at Shawnigan Lake of little Reginald Henry Bagshaw, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. B. Bagshaw, 1034 Richardson street, at the age of 19 months. The child had been suffering from bronchitis, and was taken to Shawnigan Lake in the hope that he might benefit by the change, but death occurred there yesterday at the summer residence. The remains will arrive in Victoria this evening, and the funeral will take place to-morrow at 11 o'clock at Christ church. The services will be private.

VALUE OF A GIRL'S LIFE.

Prospective Damages May Be Given for the Loss of a Daughter.

Even though at the time of the accident she was earning nothing, it is legitimate to award prospective damages for the loss of a daughter, the House of Lords decided in an appeal.

The appeal on which this interesting question was raised was that of the Taff Vale Railway Company in an action brought against them under Lord Campbell's act by the father of a girl killed in a collision. The action was tried before Mr. Justice Channell at Cardiff.

Hannah Jenkins, aged 16, an apprentice to the millinery and tailoring business at Pontypridd, was killed on January 23, 1911, in a collision which caused the loss of lives and injury to many other passengers. Although as an apprentice she was earning nothing, the jury awarded the father £75 for pecuniary loss on the basis that they were entitled to consider the reasonable expectations he had of assistance from her probable good earnings after expiration of the apprenticeship period in March, 1917.

The Court of Appeal refused to order a new trial, and the railway company appealed.

The Lord Chancellor said there was no difficulty as to the principle upon which the amount of the damages was to be ascertained. The principle was not "solatium," for the loss of the child, but "compensation," and the damages might be prospective. It was argued that it must be shown that the child was actually earning wages, some part of which, at any rate, went towards the family fund; but in his lordship's opinion, "there was no foundation for this qualification. The appeal was accordingly dismissed, with costs."

QUEER AUSTRALIAN WELL.

A curious form of water hole is found in places in western Australia, dry by day but yielding an abundant supply of water at night. The flow of water is preceded by hissing and the soundings of rushing air. The phenomenon is discussed by Dr. Malcolm MacLaren, who has located and examined one of these wells.

He found that the water supply occurred in a long, narrow trench at the bottom of which was a thin plate of gneiss, separated by a cavity from the main rock mass beneath. Apparently the heat of the days causes this plate to expand in the form of a depression, into which the water retreats. When it cools and contracts at night it forces first air and then water back into the trench.

The annual rubber output of the world is 2,000 tons, valued at $2,000,000.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By Ruth Cameron

"Yes, that was one of the greatest mistakes in my life," I heard a man say the other day, "I can't get over my having been such a fool. Why, I often lie awake nights thinking of it and kicking myself."

The man who lies awake nights thinking of his mistakes is certainly not the man who will get up in the morning alert and wide-awake. But that is not what I started to say. It was the other man's answer that I wanted to bring out.

Said he: "You'll never get anywhere that way. If you want to lie awake nights and think about something, think about the mistakes you may be making right now!"

I think that's a mighty suggestive sentence. We all make mistakes from time to time, and as soon as we get enough of a perspective to realize that they are mistakes and to be willing to acknowledge them, we begin to bewail them. "I had only done this or that," we mourn, "how much better off I'd be to-day."

What an absurd waste of energy! How much more intelligently we can use our time in thinking, "What is there that I ought to be doing to-day to make myself better off to-morrow?"

When you are inclined to think of yesterday's mistakes, try it. Say to yourself, "I didn't have any idea that was a mistake when I was making it. Now I wonder if there is anything in my present life that I am being just as blind about?"

Try to get a perspective on your life; try to see it as you will look back on it in ten years.

Of course, you won't be entirely successful, but if you try honestly, you may be able to lift a corner of the veil and get a little idea of your present mistakes and unappreciated opportunities.

"Once to every man and nation comes the moment to decide," is a misleading sentiment. The moment to decide comes to every one of us times without number. We never stop making important decisions until we stop breathing.

So don't waste any time or energy in fretting over past mistakes and lost opportunities. When you find your mind turning that way, take it "by the scruff of the neck" and turn it towards your present life. The moment you catch yourself thinking of past mistakes, let that be a signal to you to ask yourself these questions:

"Am I making any great mistake NOW?"

"Am I losing any valuable opportunity NOW?"

"Am I doing or failing to do anything NOW that I shall regret in five years?"

And by the time you have answered these questions about the vital present, you will probably have forgotten the dead past.

IF CONSTIPATED OR BILIOUS—"CASCARETS"

Headache, Sour Stomach, Biliousness and Bad Taste Gone by Morning

Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

ESQUIMALT'S REVEE TIRES OF POSITION

MAY NOT RUN FOR OFFICE IN JANUARY

Defeat of the Road Tax By-law Amendment—More Officials Are Required

Reeve Lugin, of Esquimalt, announced his possible retirement from the council last night, because municipal matters are not going the way he likes them. If the councillors do not mend their ways, and the people of the village and other portions of the municipality do not cease the continual demand on the reeve's time, the reeve won't be there in January, so he said last night.

The reeve's sudden resolve to quit municipal politics came about through a continual wrangle that spread over the municipal meeting last night from the moment it commenced until the time of the last vote. Col. Peters and the reeve were constantly fencing the reeve being supported at times by other members of the council, with Councillor McAdam stepping alongside Colonel Peters.

The trouble centred around the defeat of the road tax by-law amendment, in which his only sympathisers were Councillor Matthews and Col. Peters. Eventually, as the ayes were asked for first by the reeve on the amendment, Col. Peters said, "all right, I'll vote for you," and voted. When the opposite vote was taken there were Councillors McAdam, Mayer, Rae and Anderson.

The amendment was made by the reeve, who at the last meeting referred back to the council the road tax by-law which had already been passed by a vote of five to two. The reeve last night proposed an amendment that the road tax by-law should not come into force until January, 1913. He supported the amendment with three pages of closely typewritten matter, which he read, and upon which Councillor McAdam immediately complimented him for its lucidity. Councillor McAdam, however, insisted the householder should have his vote, and held that whatever the lawyers Mr. Lugin had consulted had said, the fact remained that the spirit of the municipal law was to obtain an expression of opinion from the people in the municipality. He was decidedly in favor of the householder voting, and if anyone wanted to challenge the election afterwards, he said, let them do so. Councillor McAdam said he did not think anyone would.

It was over municipal appointments that the reeve's resignation was suggested. From what the reeve said last night he has been acting Poo Bah for the municipality, and thought an engineer should be appointed to take over some of the duties. What with people continually coming to him with matters on all sorts of subjects for settlement and adjustment, the reeve intimated there was nothing in municipal politics except hard work. "I don't want any more of it," said the reeve, "if it is going to be like it has been in the past, I shall certainly not be here next year. I am giving two-thirds of my time to the municipality, where there should be an engineer and other officers appointed to do the work." The reeve again intimated to the councillors and the audience that he was tired of it, and that things would have to be altered if he was to be the presiding officer of the council next year.

BIBLE TEACHING IN STATE SCHOOLS

WHAT AUSTRALIAN SYSTEM REALLY IS

Principal Organizer in Commonwealth Explains Proposal

In view of the consideration of the New South Wales system of education so far as it relates to the use of the Bible in the public schools, which is being taken in hand by the religious education committee of the Columbian Diocesan Synod and the Ministerial Association, the following brief statement will be of interest.

It comes from the pen of the Rev. D. J. Garland, organizing secretary of the league in Queensland, the principal authority in Australia.

Mr. Garland suggests that "the system" should be henceforth spoken of as "the Australian System" inasmuch as it now exists in four out of the six states. He writes:

The System in View.

"The system by which the problem of religious instruction has been solved in four out of the six states of Australia, provides for simple selected Bible lessons being given by the State school teachers without sectarian teaching, and for ministers of religion or their accredited substitutes visiting the schools during school hours and teaching the children of their respective denominations. A conscience clause provides that no child shall receive either the Bible lessons from the state school teacher or religious instruction from the minister of religion, contrary to the parent's wish. This conscience clause is the key to the whole problem because it gives perfect liberty to the parent, placing the full control in their hands. Neither the state nor the minister of religion can compel the child to receive the religious lessons. This system has existed in New South Wales since 1866, in Tasmania since 1868, Western Australia since 1892, and Norfolk Island since 1906, and it was introduced last year into Queensland by the decision of the people ascertained through a referendum.

No Difficulty.

"The official opinions of the heads of the department where this system exists are emphatic that no sectarian difficulties arise in connection with the working of the religious instruction clauses and these official opinions are endorsed by the state school teachers who have in great numbers testified in writing their high appreciation of the value of the religious instruction given in the state schools. The system is further endorsed by the action of those churches, Anglican, Presbyterian and Methodist and of the Salvation Army, all of which have unanimously through their highest governing bodies given their adherence to the system, and commend its introduction where it does not exist.

"The fact that the system had existed for nearly half a century in two of the states is the plainest proof that no difficulties are created by its existence and that it gives satisfaction to a majority of those states, otherwise it would not have been continued for such a long period upon the statute books.

Catholic Schools.

"The fact that it is capable of being grafted into an existing system without in any way disturbing it; and the fact stands out that once this system is introduced it is never disturbed, thereby proving a permanent solution of the religious instruction problem. It would be idle to deny the fact that one section of the Christian church—the Roman Catholic—is opposed to the system, but notwithstanding that opposition, in New South Wales alone the number of Roman Catholic children attending the state schools is over 30,000, practically all of whom accept the selected Bible lessons from their state school teachers, and this notwithstanding the opposition of the church to the national system of education. Once the system is introduced it proves the strongest bulwark for the maintenance of a national system of education as opposed to denominational education under ecclesiastical control. There may be some better system for giving religious instruction in a national system of education, but this is the only system which has proved acceptable and provided a permanent solution of the problem."

COAST FIRE OFFICES FORM CONSOLIDATION

To Open Offices Here and Place Victoria Business Men on Directorate

A dispatch from Seattle says:

Consolidation of two of the most important fire insurance companies of the Pacific Northwest, with a paid-up capital stock of $1,000,000 and offered by local bankers and eastern Canadian and Vancouver, B. C., insurance men, was completed on Saturday, when details of the organization of the Western Union Fire Insurance Company were made public by filings at Olympia and in Seattle.

J. E. Chilberg, president of the Scandinavian-American bank, is president of the new corporation, which will have its headquarters here. Back of the big deal, the largest in many years in insurance financing, is the merger of the Western Union Fire Insurance Company, Ltd., of Vancouver, B. C., and the North Coast Fire Insurance Company of Seattle, both old established corporations. The combined annual premium income of these two companies is now close to $500,000.

Having its headquarters here and writing business all over the Pacific Northwest, the new corporation will be added to those insurance companies whose premiums, net and gross, are retained here instead of being sent to eastern banks. In the organization committee of the Western Union Fire Insurance Company appears the following names of prominent Seattle bankers, insurance men and financiers: J. E. Chilberg and J. F. Lane, respectively vice-president and cashier of the Scandinavian-American bank; James W. McBurney, president of the North Coast Fire Insurance Company; J. W. Maxwell, president of the National City bank; James D. Hoge and N. B. Solner, vice-president and president of the Union Savings and Trust Company; D. R. Moss, vice-president of the First National bank; R. V. Ankeny, cashier of the Seattle National bank; J. A. Swallow, vice-president of the National Bank of Commerce; S. H. Hedges, president of the Puget Sound Bridge & Dredging Company; Alpheus Byers, director of the North Coast Fire Insurance Company; and F. E. Brightman.

In addition these are also members of the organization:

M. Desbrisay, president of the Western Union Fire Insurance Company of Vancouver, B. C.; C. H. Clodius, president of the German-American bank of Riverville, Wash.; C. G. McLean, secretary and treasurer of the Western Union Fire Insurance Company of Vancouver, B. C.; Hon. A. A. McLean, M. P., and former attorney-general of Canada, of Charlottetown, P. E. I., and W. B. Bierce, vice-president of the Bankers Trust Corporation of Vancouver, B. C.

Mr. Bierce will be secretary and insurance manager of the new company, and will remove his headquarters from Vancouver to this city. Desbrisay, McBurney and McLean are vice-presidents of the company, and Mr. Lane, of the Scandinavian-American bank of Seattle, is its treasurer.

William B. Bierce, vice-president of the Bankers Trust Corporation, which is building new offices at Yates and Langley street, was responsible for putting through the amalgamation, and is now arranging the further amalgamation between the new company and two other fire companies on the coast. The amalgamation of the four companies will be brought about inside three weeks, when a prominent business man of Victoria will have a place on the directorate.

The new company will have offices in the Bankers Trust Corporation building at Yates and Langley streets.

PASSING SHOW

The Empress Theatre.

A dramatic feature of much interest is the splendid sketch, "The Miser's Dream," which Hyman B. Adler, a capable character actor, assisted by Miss Daisy Stemphill and Mr. Merlin Valentine offer as the leading attraction of the good bill provided at the Empress theatre this week. "The Miser's Dream" is a strong play with a pretty denouement convincing the old money-grubber that happiness is worth more than gold. The act is loudly applauded.

Leonard Martinek, a German performer who has had a long and successful season at the Wintergarten at Berlin appears with his Rag Doll. Both he and the rag doll do some clever work, the latter showing remarkable ability. The act is full of surprises, and it is well received at every performance.

Miss Grace Leonard, a prepossessing young woman who impersonates male characters, is one of the favorites of the bill if the mood of applause she receives counts for anything. Last night she had to respond to several encores, and the demand for her reappearance continued long after the next act had opened. She is assisted in the act by Frank Wilson.

Dale and Doyle offer a singing and dancing act with a distinct surprise. The latter is a rival of Julian Eltinge. The two performers are billed as "The Belle and the Beau," and the Belle offers the surprise in the last dancing number offered by the couple.

Three young men, Davey, DeMussy and Getsey, each of them with good singing voices and lively feet, have an act which includes many kinds of entertainment. Their voices blend well, and they offer some eccentric dancing steps. They also offer some good burlesque.

The Princess. Last evening the Princess theatre company presented for the first time here the southern comedy drama, "Big Hearted Jim," and judging by the intense interest with which the story

Coquitlam Terminal of Cascade Division

C. P. R. Train Crews Have Orders to Make Up Freight Trains and Start Them From Coquitlam—New Yard Office.

COQUITLAM, Oct. 26.—The first unit of the C. P. R. terminal at Coquitlam will be completed early in December, and already preparations are under way for their immediate use. Mr. F. W. Peters, general superintendent of the railway in this division; Mr. A. E. Stevens, his assistant; and Mr. G. E. Graham, of the Vancouver division, inspected the plant this week.

Already notice has gone forth to freight crews that from December 15 the freight trains of the Cascade division will be made up and start from Coquitlam, which will be the home terminal of such trains. This will affect at the present time about twelve train crews, together with a number of machinists, switching crews, yard men, clerks, etc., numbering in all about 250 men, with a monthly pay roll of about $25,000. This order means that all the officials concerned will have to make their home in Coquitlam.

Tenders for the construction of a yard office, to be situated near the dump, have been invited. The building will be 30 feet by 66 feet in size, with a concrete foundation and a frame superstructure.

EVERY PREDICTION we made concerning Coquitlam a year ago will come true, as the one regarding the trainmen has just been fulfilled.

ARE YOU going to keep on listening to the senseless, prejudiced, ill-informed enemies of Coquitlam, or are you going to come for your information to this great, big, reliable, solid corporation, which knows what it is talking about?

COQUITLAM is the ONE new town that everybody is commenting on as the new city that is making good, and more than good in every respect—promising MUCH and fulfilling MORE.

Send your name and address for literature and to be listed for the beautiful booklet "Coquitlam, the Industrial City," now in preparation. Limited edition.

was followed, it scored heavily. The play is full of unexpected climaxes and incidents, and keeps an audience guessing as to how it is coming out. All the scenes and characters are so southern, with no lack of comedy to lighten them, as the comedy lines are very strong. Madeline Bailey, a sweet young girl who, when occasion required, could show strong womanly character, was played by Miss Mildred Page, and it suited her splendidly, as it required most conscientious treatment, to bring out the light and shade demanded. The title role was played by Mr. Van Dyke. It is a great part, and he availed himself of the opportunity by playing it exceedingly well. The role of President McKinley, played by Arthur Belasco, was a striking resemblance, and must have required a great knowledge of make up. The comedy was in the hands of Dave Williams, Fred Horn and Miss Beattie Bruce, and they made the most of it. Some of the scenes were very funny. Lige Preston and Mrs. Preston played respectively by Miss Josephine Rice and Byron Aldena, stood out very strong. "Big Hearted Jim" should prove a winner for it is well written, well staged and finely acted, and combines comedy and pathos in equal proportion. It will hold the stage all week with Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

IS SIR RICHARD TO GO TO LONDON?

IS HE SLATED FOR HIGH COMMISSIONERSHIP?

Said to Be an Aspirant for Lord Strathcona's Position—Some Significant Circumstances

Is Sir Richard McBride an aspirant for the Canadian High Commissionership in London? A number of circumstances have arisen of late to suggest the idea that British Columbia's picturesque premier is on the lookout for a high, dry haven of refuge against the day of deluge. It is a safe bet that Sir Richard will not be around when the time of reckoning comes. He has basked too long in the sunshine of Fortune's smile to reconcile himself to leading an opposition and playing second fiddle. His dramatic instincts would revolt against filling a secondary role with somebody else illuminated by the full glare of the calcium.

Circumstances surrounding the trip to Europe last summer were significant. Although ostensibly he journeyed to the great metropolis to settle differences between the British Columbia Electric Railway Company and municipalities on the mainland, in which he "successfully failed, nobody imagined that this was his real mission. The "blushing ribbon" he wears on special occasions suggests another object, but Canadian knighthoods blossom at Ottawa and not London because they are only bestowed upon the recommendation of the Governor-General. It is believed that Sir Richard was merely looking over the High Commissionership at short range to satisfy himself that it was the most desirable haven. But another significant circumstance arose in the fact that during his absence Hon. W. J. Bowser, attorney-general, was selected as acting premier. Now this was unusual and a departure from administrative practice. The custom is to appoint as acting premier in the absence of the first minister, who is senior member of the cabinet, who in this province happens to be Hon. W. E. Young. The provincial secretary had acted in that capacity in the past and the change of procedure can be explained only on the assumption that the attorney-general is being trained to wear Sir Richard's shoes.

Then, again, the attorney-general is soon to become "one of us." He is erecting a handsome residence in this city and soon will pay his dutiful visits to the city treasurer's office and meet his tax bill as earnestly and becomingly as the humblest of Victoria's ratepayers. That means his retirement as a member for Vancouver and his determination to seek a place here as soon as a government job can be found for one of the "solid four." In that event Victoria would have as her representative the premier and attorney-general—to all intents and purposes the whole cabinet. That would be five for this city, but it would arouse the opposition of the mainland and Sir Richard is not seeking trouble of that sort. And yet the attorney-general is anchoring himself here.

Lord Strathcona is about to relinquish the post he has occupied with ability and honor for many years and Mr. Borden is looking around for a successor. Various names have been mentioned. During the late regime at Ottawa that of Sir Frederick Borden was frequently referred to, but the genial knight's chances evaporated on September 21 last year. Other possibilities are Sir Edmund Osler, Hon. Clifford Sifton and Sir Hugh Graham. Of the three, Sir Edmund Osler ordinarily would have the inside track, with Mr. Sifton second and Sir Hugh Graham a poor third. With Sir Richard in the running the one-up changes naturally because it is certain that Mr. Borden would like to see British Columbia's premier in London and securely riveted there.

SIGNS OVER BUILDINGS.

Application for Sign on Top of Victoria Hotel Is Refused By City Council.

The city council at the meeting last evening refused to grant permission to erect an electric sign on the top of the Victoria hotel on the ground of it being an old building.

Alderman Gleason, while he agreed with the refusal of the particular application, said he would sooner see signs on the tops of buildings than overhanging sidewalks, as was done in all modern cities to-day.

The Standard Furniture Company's new sign on their Pandora avenue premises does not comply with the by-law, and will be ordered to be removed.

The tender of Hutchison Brothers for the primary feed cable on south Government street, at $1,856, was accepted.

The wiring inspector reported that the sum of $4,710 had been collected this year from inspections, of which 2,616 had been made. The report was referred to the electric lighting committee, who will meet to consider the by-law regulating wiring next Thursday afternoon, when the inspector, J. A. Daly, will be asked to attend.

An application from Mr. Bancroft on behalf of the Greek Red Cross Society was refused. Alderman Okell saying the city could not assist an object of this kind by way of subscription.

DISTINGUISHED GUEST MOTORED TO DUNCAN

Sir Thomas Lipton Greatly Struck With Unique Possibilities of Vancouver Island

Yesterday Sir Thomas Lipton was able to view some of the natural beauties of Vancouver Island as he was taken for a delightful automobile trip by Mr. von Hochwachtler, of the firm of Alvo von Alvensleben of this city, with whom Sir Thomas had been previously acquainted in connection with his yacht races in Germany.

The party motored to Duncan, and on the way the famous baronet had the satisfaction of seeing the salmon coming down the river in large quantities. Sir Thomas was delighted with the spectacle and remarked that he never guessed salmon could be so plentiful in any part of the world, and to all intents and purposes one might go and lift them out by the shovelful.

Beautiful Roads.

Sir Thomas Lipton went on to say that the roads were as beautiful as any roads he had ever seen, equal in splendor to those of Corsica and Ceylon which he had formerly thought unapproachable. "Yes," was paraken of at Vancouver and during the drive back the distinguished guest was greatly struck with the glorious tints of late autumn which presented themselves on either hand during the drive. He expressed himself as delighted with the trip and averred that it had made a great impression on him—and had opened his eyes to the possibilities of Vancouver Island to no inconsiderable extent.

With his eyes as usual to the practical side of things, Sir Thomas suggested that the establishment of big canneries on the island would be a remarkably good business venture. The fishery resources were of a scope unknown in England, and if British people had any idea what was waiting for them in British Columbia, and especially in Vancouver Island, they would send so much money here that some of the home banks would have to go out of business.

The present visit of Sir Thomas Lipton is obviously of too brief a nature to enable him to go very thoroughly into the openings for investments, or to look over any land that he might be disposed to buy, but it seems very unlikely that one of the smartest brail in the business life of England to-day will entirely overlook the unique opportunities that Vancouver Island has to offer, and it is morally certain that not many moons will have passed before Sir Thomas will be back again in Victoria with a view of discharging here some of the contents of a very long purse.

Indeed, judging by the remarks let fall by the great sportsman during his stay here it seems highly probable that it will not be long before he will put in his stake with those who are trying to make Victoria one of the finest residential cities in the Empire.

Before leaving for Seattle to-day it was the intention of Sir Thomas to go for a short trip in a yacht, starting at 10 o'clock this morning.

HEALTH OFFICER CALLS COUNCIL TO ORDER

Extent of Infectious Disease in City Last Month—Reasons for Its Origin

Dr. G. A. B. Hall, city medical officer, gave the city council some plain views last evening in the course of a letter to them on their action in extending the time during which condemned buildings might be allowed to remain before removal. He told them the action was illegal, and that the board ought not to change its ruling when once given. One paragraph of the communication, which was tabled without any discussion, said:

"In the first place the council has no authority to extend the time after having let as a court and condemned the buildings; secondly, it often works disadvantageously to the department by giving persons the impression that the officials have no authority to act and causes ill-feeling with other owners, some having the opinion that partiality is being shown."

Infectious Disease.

Referring to infectious diseases in the city during October, the medical officer in his report says:

"There were five cases of diphtheria admitted to the isolation hospital, one of which came from without the city. Sixteen cases of scarlet fever were admitted to the isolation hospital, a total of twenty-one. Nearly all the cases of scarlet fever have come from the outskirts of the northern part of the city. On investigation I found four or five families in which the children had been sick with scarlet fever, but the disease had not been recognized and, therefore, had not been reported. In the meantime, other children from the house were attending school, and in three or four instances the patient had returned to school, carrying infection with it. This accounts for the number of cases we have. All of these, however, did not contract the disease in the city. Two of the scarlets arrived in the city last month with the infection. So far we have been able to confine the trouble to the locality in which it started, and we have apparently located all the cases. There were no deaths during the month at the isolation hospital. The diphtheria cases were not confined to one locality, and occurred in places

Worn out with Coughing?

Nothing is more exhausting than a persistent cough. Old folks and very young folks alike, find a bad cough most distressing. No need to go on suffering!

Peps will end the worst cough or cold. Peps contain the balsamic essences and fumes of the Pine tree, with other medicinal ingredients, so prepared, that as soon as a Peps is put into the mouth it dissolves and these medicinal fumes are liberated. They are then breathed down the throat, and direct to the lungs.

Ordinary cough mixtures go to the stomach. Peps go to the lungs—there's the great fundamental difference between the old-fashioned forms of treatment, and the Peps treatment.

Most cough mixtures contain opium and other poisons. Peps don't. Better for children!

The most stubborn cases of asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, tightness across the chest, cold, or winter cough, will yield to Peps treatment.

All druggists and stores sell Peps. 50c. box or you may obtain post free by sending price to Peps Co., Dupont St., Toronto. If you have not tested this unique remedy, send 1c. stamp to above address (to pay return postage) and you will receive a free trial packet of Peps.

where the sewerage system is not complete.

"Since my last report eight cases of typhoid have been reported, four being in one family. Six of these cases seem to have originated within the city. The only cause that I can assign being the close proximity of stables or chicken pens, and the infection being carried by flies."

PARKS DEPARTMENT CLOSING YEAR'S WORK

Tree-Planting Proceeding to Close Up By-laws—Greenhouse Under Construction

The parks branch of the city engineering department is making considerable progress with the work which has to be finished before certain outdoor standing by-laws can be closed up.

Seeding has practically closed, and there is little left to be done except in one or two isolated cases. The planting out of trees is now the chief consideration at present, trees from the nursery at Beacon Hill park being distributed freely where they are required, this nursery proving a most valuable asset to the boulevard system. There have also been some trees transplanted in the city park at the store, where they were badly needed.

The amount of work still being done has caused the retention of the regular gang on boulevard work. The greenhouse at Beacon Hill park is advancing, while it is proposed to send three or four men to Mount Douglas shortly to improve the trails. The difficulty in the past has been to secure accommodation for the men, the farms around having no space to spare, and it has been decided to construct a portable bunkhouse for the men, which can be moved about as circumstances permit. The difficulty of finding accommodation can be solved satisfactorily. The intention will be to use the natural pathway, or, failing by another route, as with a small expenditure the access for foot passengers can be much improved. Owing to the cutting down of the estimated of the parks committee by $4,000 it has not been possible to adopt a comprehensive plan for the development of the park systematically, such as was proposed early in the year.

INSPECTION OF SCAFFOLDING URGED

King, business agent of the Building Trades Council, waited on the city council last evening to urge the inspection of scaffolding and adequate toilet accommodation, on buildings in course of construction. The recent occurrence at the Belmont block served as the subject of Mr. Norris' observations, and cases were cited by the speakers of lack of inspection, and no facilities of the character asked. Cases quoted included the Belmont block, the new Knights of Pythias hall

REAL CAUSES OF BALKAN STRUGGLE

Neglect of Turkey to Institute Reforms in Macedonia

No one who has followed the politics of the Balkan peninsula during the later years can have any doubt as to the real cause of the struggle which has now begun, writes Sir Edwin Pears from Constantinople under date of October 19. It lies in the first instance in the neglect of Turkey to execute reforms in Macedonia, and in the second instance in the neglect of Europe to enforce its own decisions. The want of security for life and property in that province has been the complaint of every traveller there for two generations. Disorders of every kind; men of one race plundering, killing men of the others; retaliation; no justice in the courts; bands of each of the Christian races attacking the other, and uniting to attack the Moslems; the Turkish authorities, civil and military alike, supporting now one, now the other; the eviction of Christian tenants from their lands to make way for Moslem settlers; in such facts and in the absence of any real attempt to execute reforms are to be found the explanation of the dissatisfaction of the orderly elements in Macedonia. In the further fact that these disorders drove Bulgarian, Serbian and Greek residents in the country to seek refuge in the neighboring countries, an aggravation of the dissatisfaction which existed there was found.

A considerable portion of Macedonia was withdrawn from Turkish rule by the treaty of San Stefano, and there is no reasonable doubt that but for this withdrawal that portion would now be as exceptionally prosperous as is Bulgaria. But the Congress of Berlin which made this change knew of the condition of Macedonia, and, while replacing this portion under Turkey, provided a plan of reforms which, if it had been honestly worked, would have been a sovereign remedy for the woes of Macedonia. The concert of Europe seemed to have exhausted its strength in suggesting a plan of reforms. After 1890, when the International Committee, of which Lord Edmund Fitzmaurice was the British member, presented its Project of Law, none of the powers troubled about the conditions of Macedonia. During several years it seemed to observers that Austria in particular really desired things in the country to go from bad to worse. For a while there was even a slight boom in the price of land, because most foreigners believed that Austria had made up her mind to advance to Salonica without delay. The country was too distant from Russia for that power to take special interest in it.

When, after some years of absolute neglect, the powers were forced by disturbances to give attention to it, England, France and Italy were the only ones who urged serious reforms. But even they were beaten by Abdul Hamid. They only proposed reforms after they had sounded his ministers, and learned what was the maximum limit of what for appearance sake their master would admit as subjects for discussion. Even those when discussed and admitted in theory were steadily and systematically defeated. Europe learned to be thankful for small mercies at his hands, and thought a system of gendarmerie was established after prodigious efforts, in practice the work of the new body was intentionally very slight. Farsighted statesmen ought to have seen that the condition of the country was constantly becoming worse and indeed intolerable both to Macedonians and the neighboring states. Really none of the ambassadors in Constantinople cared except Sir Nicolas O'Connor.

Meantime the newly created State of Bulgaria had developed in strength. She, Greece and Serbia had suffered from the disorders in the neighboring country under Turkish rule to an extent which has not been realized by Europe. To add to the difficulties of combined action between these Balkan States there was a strong feeling of hostility between Bulgarians and Greeks, due mainly to a very natural cause. The churches and schools in the country which had been established previous to 1890 had all been legally inscribed in the name of the Patriarchate of the Orthodox Church. When a Bulgarian exarch was appointed many of these churches were claimed by the Bulgars as either having been built by them or as being used by a larger number of worshippers than were the Greeks. Bulgarians and Greeks fought for the possession of such churches, and increased the disorders. Finally, a working agreement was arrived at by the two bodies of Christians, and this source of disturbance ceased.

At last, that is after having seen the failure of Young Turkey to improve the condition of Macedonia, even Austria which a few years ago was lukewarm on the subject of reforms, became alarmed. Count Berchtold proposed to the great powers that they should urge Turkey to move in the direction of decentralization, which in one form or another is what all observers regard as the best remedy for Macedonian disorders. If the proposition had been cordially accepted by Europe, it would probably have been welcomed in principle by the present Turkish government, because some of its leading supporters have long recognized that in such a course lay the only means of keeping the country under the Sultan's rule. But Berchtold's proposal was not welcomed, and its cold reception encouraged the men in Turkey who are opposed to all reforms. The neglect of the great powers, equally with the inaction or inability of Turkey, have been the great factors which have brought about the war.

Some foreign journals have qualified this common action of the Balkan States as quixotic. In the sense in which the word is often used it is quixotic. They are fighting for an idea, that namely of securing good government for their unemancipated brothers in Macedonia. The most notable condition submitted by Bulgaria is that each of the Balkan States, through its ministers in Constantinople, shall have the right, with those of the great powers, to superintend the execution of the reforms in Macedonia. I venture to consider it a sound, practical proposal. But, whatever the great powers may do, the Balkan States cannot forget that Turkish promises exist in abundance which have never been attempted to be carried out. Of course, the great powers know this, but, in their praiseworthy desire to keep the peace of Europe, they wished at all cost to keep things quiet. They did not feel the shoe pinch. The Balkan States did; and, remembering the worthlessness of mere promises, they insisted on guarantees. The one mentioned, that their representatives should be joined to those of the great powers to watch that the promises were kept, is reasonable, and would be effective. It is to be regretted that it was not immediately accepted by the great powers as a basis for negotiations. If it had been, I believe there need have been no war.

WOMAN'S HAIR REACHES TO KNEES

A Year Ago Was Threatened With Baldness. Tells How She Made Her Hair Grow.

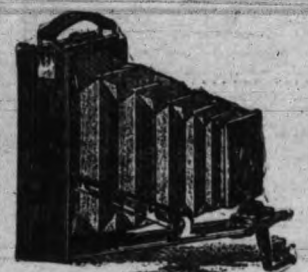

Mrs. Esther Emery, now visiting friends in the city, is the fortunate possessor of marvellously beautiful hair, which, when loosed from its coils, falls to her knees. Moreover it is of soft, silky and fluffy texture and in color a glorious glossy gold. Yet just one year ago she was threatened with baldness. Urged to tell how she had obtained this wonderful growth in so short a time, she said: "Had anyone told me such marvellous results could be accomplished so quickly, I positively would not have believed it. Twelve months ago my hair, which then reached barely to my shoulders, was falling out at an alarming rate and growing very thin, actually exposing the bald scalp in several spots. It was dull and lifeless in color, turning grey in patches, and very dry and brittle. My head was covered with dandruff and itched like mad all the time. I tried fully a dozen different hair tonics but they were all the same and never did me a bit of good. One day I chanced to read in my home paper of a simple home prescription to make the hair grow that was recommended by a well known physician. It said that by taking ordinary Lavona de Compoes and mixing with Bay Rum and Menthol Crystals and applying to the scalp each night with the finger tips that new hair would grow very rapidly. I decided to try it and I had my first result in a few days. The hair began to grow. The itching ceased and the dandruff disappeared. Then my little hairs appeared all over my scalp. These grew and grew as though nothing would ever stop them. They are read in my home paper of a simple home prescription to make the hair grow that was recommended by a well known physician. ## AN ADDRESS ON WESTMINSTER ABBEY

BY GREAT ARCHITECT
YESTERDAY EVENING

Interesting Description of Britain's Noble Pantheon — Illustrated by Slide

A large and interested audience listened last evening to the address given at the Alexandra hall by Mr. W. D. Caroe, F. S. A., of London, England, to the University Women's Club, Miss Cann, president of the club, introducing the speaker to the gathering. In commencing his history of the architectural changes which the Abbey had experienced since its first foundation, Mr. Caroe referred to the place which it held in the sentiments of the British people, and said that he considered it should be the mecca of every Briton.

Originally it had its foundation in a monastery built by Robert in 927, this being rebuilt by Edward the Confessor on a scale of great magnificence. Henry III., whom Dante condemned to "the limbo of ineffectual souls," was even more ambitious in the memorial which he built to Edward the Confessor, and the building progressed until Edward I. and succeeding kings until it reached its present fine proportions. Despite the changing styles which came with each succeeding reign, Westminster Abbey was peculiar in that it bore in its various parts a splendid harmony of design, the periods being discernible more in the detail work than in the general effect. It was part of the nobility of the structure that there was evidence in the tooling of the stones of great intelligence and imagination on the part of the workmen who carried out the designs of the various architects.

In describing the part which Sir Christopher Wren—"a very great architect who did not care a rap about architecture"—took in changing the appearance of the Abbey, the speaker referred to the skimming to which he submitted the grey and smoke-begrimed stones during his time, this process robbing it of its ancient and picturesque appearance. Sir Christopher Wren had also been responsible for the removal of Solomon's perch from the entrance to the north transept. Sir Gilbert Scott had designed the three French porches in front of this transept. Sir Christopher Wren had once designed a spire for the Abbey, also, but this was not carried out. One of the greatest of the architects who had had anything to do with the Abbey in recent times was the late Mr. Pearson, who had exercised real genius in catching the spirit of, and copying, the architectural scheme used by the previous builders. The tooling, he discovered, was quite freely done, and there was an individuality in the work which seemed to show that each workman worked independently in matters of detail. Sir Gilbert Scott had never seemed to discover that there was any particular feeling or spirit running through the building, and in this his work had fallen short. Other architects who had left their marks upon the Abbey were Isip, whose perpendicular work just before the Reformation is still visible in the Abbey; Hawkins, who carried out the towers, and many others had given their quota toward the building of the fine old pile.

Several beautiful views of the interior with the graceful soaring pillars, delicate traceries, and carved stalls were shown, while the speaker dwelt affectionately on the beautiful bits of stone carving and rich coloring found in one of the chapter houses when it was cleared a few years ago of the great sheaves of records which had been stored there since the time of Henry VIII. A description of the cloisters was given, and denial made to the popular fallacy that a cloister was a place where the monks walked. They were the scene, on the contrary, of the monks' labors. The deanery was also briefly described, part of which had been erected in the time of Queen Elizabeth, and was of considerable interest particularly on account of being the residence of so many great men. The Jerusalem chamber, where the famous Westminster Assembly sat for five years succeeding 1643 was also described, as was Jericho, through which the monks had to pass on their way to Jerusalem chamber. In this chamber Henry IV. had died—a modified fulfillment of his great wish that he should die in the Holy City. Henry VII.'s generous use of his wealth in beautifying the Abbey was referred to, this king having sent to Italy for a sculptor who was perhaps more famous because he was the man who broke Michael Angelo's nose. This Tarrano had done some very beautiful work in the ceilings, however, which would make him worthy to be remembered.

In his description of the sanctuary and chapels the speaker referred to the manner in which all the tombs there were grouped round that of Edward the Confessor, a long procession of kings and queens and royal children being memorialized in effigy and text. The origin of the effigy was described; how the figure, reproduced in stone in the most life-like manner possible, was carried in its royal robes before the hearer. Numbers of these had been preserved in more or less undamaged state, had been collected by Dean Robinson, and were on exhibition in the Norman crypt as the "ragged regiment," which everyone who visited the Abbey should see.

The coronation chair was also shown, a description of the stone brought from Stone by Edward I., and the parchment covered wood of the chair itself, being given. In describing the tomb of Henry III. the speaker referred to the extravagant cost of the Egyptian porphyry used in this, which, he said, would cost £50 in England today. Darnley's tomb was particularly interesting on account of a mark which showed where a crown—the symbol of kingship—had been torn away.

At the conclusion of Mr. Caroe's interesting discourse, Bishop Roper, in thanking him on behalf of the University Women's club and the audience, said that he hoped some day to be a member of one of those Canadian parties which the speaker had spoken of having conducted over the Abbey, this sentiment receiving the hearty endorsement of the whole gathering.

WOMEN'S COUNCIL TO URGE CURFEW BY-LAW

Objection Raised to Woodlands Road Garbage Plant—Danger to Children Suggested

By resolution passed at the regular meeting of the Local Council of Women yesterday afternoon, the city council is to be petitioned to have a curfew by-law prepared and passed, whereby the children of the city will be compelled to keep within doors after certain hours that will be prescribed in the by-law. Should the efforts of the council of women result in the city council passing the request by-law, there will be work for the appointment of two special constables whose duties will be to see that children are not allowed away from their homes late at night without sufficient reason, or unaccompanied by parents or guardians.

Difficulties that present themselves in regard to the by-law were spoken of in the meeting by Mrs. Day, who told of having written to other cities, and then, in conjunction with others in the council, had prepared a by-law which they had submitted to the city solicitor and to the chief of police for criticism. Both speakers referred to the harm to children when they were out late at night without guardians. The meeting decided to obtain from Toronto a copy of the by-law of that city relating to the employment of news and messenger boys.

The proposed garbage station at Woodlands road was objected to, and the objections supported by Dr. Helen Ryan, who said the garbage station would attract flies, and that the health of the children attending Moss street school would be endangered. Miss Jones reported that the committee had interviewed the council but that nothing could be done. Aid. Cuthbert had been interviewed, and it was no use trying to have the matter changed.

Mrs. MacNaughton, Mrs. Watt and Mrs. Farris acknowledged congratulations on their election to the convention and the senate of the University of British Columbia. Mrs. Watt asked that the council should continue to interest itself in the higher education of women in this province. Mrs. MacNaughton, provincial vice-president, thanked the local council for its letter of greeting on her appointment.

COLD CONSOLATION.

Three o'clock on a cold, foggy autumn morning. The weary cyclist was lost in a trackless wilderness of moorland. As he pedaled wearily on, his breath came in short, sharp gasps. He was nearly done. The ghastly silence oppressed him.

Ah, a light!

The sight revived him, and he rode briskly up to the lonely little cottage, and knocked loudly on the door.

"Here I shall get at least food and drink, and perhaps a bed," he was telling himself gleefully, when an upstairs window was thrown open.

"Whadder want?" came a husky, sleepy voice.

"I'm a weary traveller—" he began.

"Then travel!" retorted the husky voice. The window banged. All was again silence.

THAT PLEASANT QUESTION.

Dobbie's car lay upturned by the side of the road. The wheels were buckled, the mudguards were shattered, the front lamps smashed to smithereens, and the engine was a mass of twisted machinery. The owner surveyed the wreck with dismay.

Meanwhile, a pedestrian came on the scene, and surveyed the car with a critical eye.

"Hallo!" remarked he pleasantly. "Had an accident?"

Dobbie turned from his car and looked at the man.

"Oh, no!" he replied, with withering emphasis. "I've just bought a new car, and was trying to smash my old one. I can't do much damage with this motor-borne. Perhaps you could lend me a pickaxe?"—Answers.

REFUSES TO PUT MOTION TO COUNCIL

COMMITTEE IS TO APPOINT ENGINEER

Three Tenders for Lighting Esquimaux—Hutchison Bros., Ltd., Bid $4,800

Following the rejection of the reeve's amendment to the road tax by-law last night, and the confirmation by the majority of the councillors of the by-law as originally moved by Councillor McAdam, Col. Peters moved that notice be issued regarding the Esquimaux road tax and the necessity for registration, but Reeve Lugin immediately refused to have anything to do with it. "I decline to entertain such a resolution," he said. "If you must do it you must do it alone."

He then ruled it out of order, and for the time it remains so, as the councillors, having had a very strenuous meeting, appeared tired of the matter, and allowed it to stand until another meeting. It will probably be brought up again, as without its passage the road tax by-law so persistently opposed by the reeve, and so strenuously fought for by Councillor McAdam, becomes inoperative.

The road tax by-law was again opposed by the reeve, who made an amendment that it should not come into force until next year. He lost on the vote, and said he hoped disastrous consequences would not follow the action of the council and embarrass the municipality with legal proceedings. Councillor Matthews, who supported the reeve's amendment, said that it would not hurt the householders to wait for another year for a vote, but his statement met with murmurs of protest from those who were seated in the hall, and from councillors at the council table.

Mr. Lugin's suggestion of the illegality of the next election if the householders vote, brought the reply from Councillor McAdam that he was informed that the present council was an illegal body, and could be upset by law. Councillor Anderson remarked that in making up the voters' list the way the reeve proposed, there would be American citizens placed on the list as property holders, and that, if these voted the election would be illegal, as the act provided for only British subjects voting. The reeve said the Americans would not vote, when councillor retorted, "What is the use of hedging, you have not asked them to swear?" The debate on the matter went too quickly to follow, half a dozen talking at once. Finally Col. Peters got the floor and said: "The reeve's got this advice, and all this port of thing. 'Pon my soul, I think there is no use bothering about it. Let it go at that.'"

The necessity for the employment of an engineer in the district was called to the attention of the council by the reeve on a letter from a Mr. Finmore, who wrote asking for street lines, as he proposed to build. There being a difference of six feet over which the owner believes he has control, and the council believes he has not, the reeve was against accepting the lines as offered in the letter, and urged the appointment of an engineer. Col. Peters advocated the employment of Ducane Dutcher and Company, Vancouver, for the work and for advice on the electric light installation, but this firm was opposed by the reeve and other members of the council. The appointment of an engineer was approved, and applications that are before the council are to be taken up by the light committee.

The committee in considering the appointment will consider whether it is best to appoint a temporary man or a permanent official. The opinion of Col. Peters was that the present council is a stop-gap in municipal affairs until the end of the year, and that a temporary man would do. Discussion on the matter became so rife that the reeve opened the statute, and read to the councillors his authority. "I am here to direct the management of the council," he said, "and I am going to do it."

Col. Peters: "You have never done anything in committee better than we've done it. We will help you out in anything."

Three bids were put in as a result of the tenders for lighting the district. The B. C. Electric Company confirmed a previous offer of $7,500 by an informal letter, and against this there were bids from Hinton Electric Company and from Hutchison Brothers, Limited. The tender of Hinton & Co. was $4,875, and that of the Hutchison Co. $4,800. The B. C. Electric Company required ninety days to do the work, Hutchison Bros. agreed to complete the work in sixty days, and Hinton's required seventy-five days. The lighting committee will consider the tenders and report back to the council.

Pound, refuse and health by-laws received their final reading, and were passed.

REGULATION OF AUTOMOBILE GARAGES

Council Hears Ordinance to Be Adopted Next Week—Security for Public

Sweeping changes in the control of garages are proposed in the new by-law which was submitted to the city council last evening, and laid over for a week for the consideration of the aldermen.

All garages are to be of the A or B class of fireproof construction, and a concrete floor, and chemical extinguishers must be provided. There must be a watchman, and no smoking is to be allowed in the buildings. Not more than 50 gallons of gasoline may be kept in portable filling tanks, and all other gasoline supplies must be kept outside the building and in tanks buried in the ground with at least three feet of earth above, no such tank to contain more than 250 gallons and not more than two of such tanks to be allowed for any public garage, and not more than one for a private garage. All storage tanks must be located according to the requirements of the fire chief. Provision is made for the storage of gasoline beneath sidewalks. Open receptacles for handling gasoline are not to be permitted.

The pound by-law fixes three city pounds, Queen's avenue, Garbally road and in Victoria West, also the fees for impounding and the duties of pound-keeper.

This by-law was also read a first time and laid over.

POLITICAL PROSPECTS AFFECT MARKET

Suggestion of Special Session Causes Movement in Some Industrial Lines

New York, Nov. 12.—Politics were again injected into the situation as a stock influence of prime importance by the remarks credited to the president-elect, which, though not definite, were rather suggestive of an extra session of congress shortly after the inauguration, which had the effect of heavy selling of those issues which are likely to be disturbed as a consequence of downward revision of the tariff schedules. Later it was officially announced that the extra session would be postponed and as a result the market rallied sharply. Traders continue to pursue a conservative course on the buying side of the market. The prospect of tariff tinkering has always had its ill effects, and too the domestic money position and the unsettled state of politics on the other side are factors of immediate consequence which themselves would tend to produce restraint.

GRANBY STILL THE FEATURE ON 'CHANGE

Stock Gained Two Points—Shares in Other Concerns in Fair Demand

Victoria, Nov. 12.—Granby continues the feature in the local security market, and to-day showed a further advance of two points from yesterday on the exchange. Others of the list were about the same, Lucky Jim Zinc Mines, Snowstorm and B. C. Permanent Loan being in fair demand. Canadian Northwest Oil continues to drag, notwithstanding the confidence of some shareholders in higher levels. The stock was offering at 88c, but it appears evident that there is ample for sale at 85c and fractionally up.

MOTHERS' TERRIBLE ACT.

Cuts Throats of Children and Commits Suicide.

Virden, Man., Nov. 11.—Last night at their home near Scarth station, ten miles west of here, the wife of Arthur Clark, aged 30, killed her two children, aged five years and one year, and then committed suicide. According to the husband, all four were sleeping in the same room and he was awakened by the noise of the children made while his mother was in the act of cutting his throat. When Clark got up to restrain his wife she ran to the other end of the room and cut her own throat with a razor.
It was then about 1 o'clock, and Clark rushed out to a neighboring farm and told his story. The farmer accompanied him back to the house, where the mother and children were found dead. Mrs. Clark had all arrangements made to leave for England to-day, while Clark was to have made a sale and followed them within a month.

ENGINEER ASKS FOR LARGE LOANTO COMPLETE SEWER WORK UNDER ADVISEMENT

Estimates Are to Be Sought
First—By-law for Hospital
to Be Submitted

The preliminary intimation of what sums will be required to be voted by by-law came up at the city council last evening. They were comprised in letters from the city engineer suggesting that a by-law for approximately $700,000 should be submitted at the annual election, and for a petition to submit a by-law for $250,000 for the buildings at the Royal Jubilee hospital. The latter was signed by 188 ratepayers, representing an assessed value of $17,500,000, and being more than the necessary one-tenth, a by-law will be accordingly prepared.

However, as was to be expected, there was considerable discussion over the vote for sewers. Mr. Rust submitted the following estimates:

Northwest sewer ..... $250,000
Shelbourne street, King's road to North Dairy road ..... 45,000
To complete northeast sewer ..... 55,000
Extensions to street mains ..... 250,000
Main surface drains ..... 100,000

The engineer in his communication said that in regard to the northwest sewer, part of which will have to be constructed through the municipality of Esquimalt and which will provide an outlet for a portion of the drainage of that municipality, it would probably be worth while, if the work is to be proceeded with, to enter into negotiations with Esquimalt to arrange for a contribution towards the cost. The estimate of cost did not provide for the purchase of a right-of-way for the northwest sewer nor for any banking charges. If it was the intention of the council to submit a by-law for the $750,000, the engineer suggested, the approximate cost of such right-of-way and the amount of discount on the bonds should be added to that figure, and that Mr. Sargison, land purchasing agent, should obtain from owners an estimate of the cost of the land required for the northwest sewer.

Alderman Humber: "Until the council know the completion of the 1913 council they will not vote the money."
Mayor Beckwith: "They certainly will vote it, because they know it is essential."

Alderman Stewart considered that a vote of $400,000 or so would be sufficient to keep work going ahead of paying, and provide for the completion of the undertaking started or projected. He took the view that as the discount would be so large next year, it would be well to ask for only half a million dollars in 1913 as sufficient, while money was so difficult to borrow. He, therefore, moved that the by-law for $500,000 should be prepared.

Mayor Beckwith thought a million could be well expended as sewer work was demanded in Victoria to-day.

Alderman Gleason, after Alderman Beard had seconded the resolution of Alderman Stewart, moved an amendment that the city engineer should be asked to submit estimates of the cost of the work, and full information before a by-law was prepared, and that the ratepayers looked for adequate estimates. For the third time they were asking for money for the northeast sewer.

Alderman Porter seconded, and the resolution of Alderman Stewart was then withdrawn, the amendment carrying. Alderman Humber alone voted in the negative.

A BUSY MAN.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 12.—President-elect Woodrow Wilson planned to be governor all day, abandoning his role of future national executive. He had many appointments with commissions and state officers at Trenton and was to dedicate a new building in the state home for girls.

J. S. GORDON GETS NEW APPOINTMENTSUPERINTENDENT OF VANCOUVER SCHOOLS

Has Been Connected With Education Department in This City for Several Years

J. S. Gordon, B.A., of this city, has been appointed city superintendent of schools in Vancouver. He was officially named at a special meeting of the board yesterday forenoon, all the members being present with the exception of Trustee J. J. Dougan, who happened to be out of town.

Mr. Gordon was inspector of high schools for the province. His services were sought by the board, whose members believe that he was the best man who could be obtained for the position. His prospective appointment was taken up a few days ago with the head of the provincial department of education, and Dr. Robinson, while he was sorry in many ways to lose Mr. Gordon from his staff, agreed to meet the wishes of the Vancouver board, and will accept Mr. Gordon's resignation, so that the new city superintendent will be able to begin work in his new office on November 15. The salary will be $3,600 a year.

Though he has been a resident of Victoria for several years, since he has been connected with the provincial department of education, Mr. Gordon is really more of a Vancouverite. A gold medalist of McGill, he came to British Columbia in April, 1896, and before 1902 has served for some time as a teacher in the public and high schools of the Terminal City. In the latter year he was appointed a provincial inspector, having particular charge during the following six years of schools in the interior. In 1908 he was appointed to the inspectorate of Vancouver Island. In 1910 he was named high school inspector for the province. Mr. Gordon was married in Vancouver soon after his arrival, his wife being the eldest daughter of the late S. H. Brown.

PILOT'S STORY OF WRECK.

Misled By Fisherman's Light—Marine Department Orders Investigation.

Quebec, Nov. 11.—It has now come out that the carrying of a lantern on the St. Laurent beach by a fisherman led the pilot of the Royal George to make his grave mistake. It is said that the fisherman was visiting his fishery and as he walked along the beach the lantern was swinging.

The Royal George was then coming up the river at full speed, and the pilot, seeing the light swinging to and fro, thought it was the light on the gas buoy at Beaumont shoal, which is almost immediately opposite St. Laurent light. He gave orders to port the helm, bringing the vessel towards the north shore.

When he discovered his mistake he ordered the helm to starboard, but before the steamer swung to the south she struck and remained fast.

Ottawa, Nov. 11.—Hon. J. D. Hazen, minister of marine and fisheries, has instructed Wreck Commissioner Lindsay to make a most searching inquiry into the conduct of the pilot on the steamer Royal George, which stranded on the Isle of Orleans, near Quebec. He will also investigate the conduct of the pilot of the steamers Bellona and Gladstone, which have recently met with accidents in the lower St. Lawrence. The inquiry is to be broad and thorough, and he will investigate the whole question of pilotage on the river.

The circumstances of the passage of the steamer were explained by Alderman Gleason, who said the board last year spent $10,000 on a school when there was not a cent in sight, and the council had ultimately to finance it in some other way.

Alderman Baker did not see the object of passing by-laws at all if the board could do as it liked about expenditure. The resolution was then laid over.

ELECTROCUTION.

Dogs to Be Destroyed in Future By Electricity Instead of Poison.

The city council last evening decided to introduce electrocution to the city dog pound, city wharf. In future all ownerless canines will be removed to the happy hunting grounds by way of electricity instead of poison, the cost of the former being only two cents, as against forty cents for poison. A new dog by-law was also introduced, which will be considered at the next meeting.

The mayor, Aldermen Stewart and Porter will form the court of revision on the voters' list, which will sit next month.

Skates may in future be sharpened near the Victoria Arena, the city having leased a strip of land for the purpose off the Old Men's Home property to certain applicants.

JAILS OVERCROWDED.

Recommendations of Grand Jury As Means of Relief.

New Westminster, Nov. 12.—Overcrowding of both the city and provincial jails was condemned by the grand jury in its presentment to Mr. Justice Murphy. Strong recommendations were made that immediate reform in this direction should be made, and the further suggestion was thrown out that in view of approaching civic elections voters should demand a pledge of candidates that during the next year provision would be made for more suitable accommodations for the administration of justice and the care of prisoners.

Cocoa is the Children's friend,
Tea and Coffee
are their enemies.

A child, up to seven years of age, should be brought up on milk. And it should never have a drop of tea or coffee until it is thirteen years of age. In fact, the authorities say it is better they should not drink any tea or coffee until they reach maturity.

But from the age of seven on, they may drink cocoa with great benefit.

But be sure to get the right cocoa.

There is as much difference between Lowney's Cocoa and ordinary cocoas as there is between cream and skimmed milk.

Lowney's Cocoa is absolutely pure. And we have the reputation of buying the very cream of the cocoa beans that come from the tropics. This is shown in the fine, full flavor of Lowney's Cocoa. It is thoroughly wholesome and perfectly delicious. Made in our neat-as-a-pin Montreal factory.

Sold by grocers. In tins—10c to 50c sizes.
